NATURE TALK AND WALK

Schoolchildren And Parents Are Thoroughly Terwilligered

By LEW CODDINGTON

It's a rare creature, less common than a condor or a whooping crane — a plump, land-borne being with a round face and a nonstop chirping call.

It's a red-capped Terwilliger, found in woods, beaches and waterways of Marin County, generally with a flock of human beings in close pursuit.

Such a scene occurred Saturday, when Elizabeth Terwilliger of Mill Valley descended on John MacPhail School in Santa Venetia for one of her celebrated nature walks.

About 150 persons turned out, more than two-thirds of them supercharged, grade-school children tended by smiling parents.

Mrs. Terwilliger, a tiny red knit cap sitting on her head, trundled into a classroom with a bewildering array of stuffed animals and props and began her rapid-fire 45-minute lecture.

She covered poisonous plants, snakes, rodents and birds, her animated delivery keeping the audience wide-eyed.

When the talk came to "Mr. Gopher," she made a squinty, toothy gopher's face. When owls were the topic, she had the youngsters hooting loudly for the male owl, softly for the female owl.

One after another, examples and anecdotes tumbled out. She had four different stuffed woodpeckers, and four matching tree trunks showing the different types of holes woodpeckers drill.

"Hold out your hand," she said, and a hundred hands thrust out. "Round off the fingers, round them, round them," she said, making a rounding motion with her other hand. "Now color them red," she said, waving her other hand like a brush. "That's poison oak. We don't want to go near that, do we?"

Along the way, she slipped in a plug for the Audubon Society, of which she is a member, and dropped a few hints about preserving the environment — including showing a stuffed bird with an eight-ringed plastic beer can holder still wedged around its neck.

She carefully explained her collection of two dozen or so stuffed creatures — including two fawns — was gathered because people contacted her when they found a dead animal, not because she killed any herself.

On the whole, the youngsters loved it, cheerfully screeching and flapping and hooting whenever they were asked. At least one youthful, male cynic balked, however, at the idea of being a female Monarch butterfly. "I ain't no lady," he said. "I ain't laying no eggs."

After the lecture, "Mrs. T." bounced out into the parking lot, ignoring the gray sky and the sharp wind, searching the muddy ground for telltale signs. The crowd streamed after this modern-day Pied Piper — except for the one boy on roller skates, who had some problems getting around.

Soon, Mrs. Terwilliger had everybody eating fennel, a ready plant, and looking for signs. Suddenly, a discovery! A hole in the ground.

"That belongs to Mr. Mouse," she said, as the crowd formed a circle around her. "That's his front door. And under there is a mouse street. You know, some-

Unidentified Animal Thought To Be Rabid

A Marinwood man is undergoing the painful series of antirabies inoculations after being bitten by an unidentified animal, Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, Marin County health officer, said today.

She said the man was out walking his poodle after dark about a week ago when an animal attacked the dog. When the owner went to the rescue of the poodle, he was bitten, according to Dr. Albrecht.

The animal then escaped, jumping a six-foot fence, the man said. He described it as "bigger than a large dog," according to Dr. Albrecht.

Dr. Albrecht said her office had tested a bobcat last year for rabies and that there "reportedly are mountain lions" in Marin.

She also said that "two or three" persons in Marin last year underwent antirabies shots after being bitten by animals.

The doctor cautioned Marin residents to report any animal bites to her office. Sometimes an animal that has fled is found later, she said, and can be tested for rabies.

Further, she said "the single most important factor in animal bites is to identify the animal." People who are bitten by dogs should make every attempt to get the owner's name and address and the license number of the dog, according to Dr. Albrecht.

Two Marinities Will Chair Bridge Posts

The new president of the Golden Gate Bridge District has named Marin representatives as chairmen of two of the district's six standing committees and removed the board's two labor officials from a committee dealing with labor relations.

President Edwin M. Fraser of Del Norte County also vowed he will remove from committees any members who fail to attend meetings regularly.

Marin County supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. was made chairman of the insurance committee, a position held for many years by directors who are in the insurance business. Arrigoni is a stockbroker and bar owner. He replaces Dean N. Meyer of Mill Valley, who no longer serves on the district board.

Named chairman of the rules, policy and industrial relations committee, which handles issues of key interest to labor, was San Rafael Mayor C. Paul Bettini. Directors Daniel F. Del Carlo, secretary-treasurer of the San Francisco Building Trades Council, and Lawrence Mazzola, business representative for Plumbers Local Union No. 38 in San Francisco, were removed from the committee.

Fraser said he removed Del Carlo and Mazzola because he feared the state's new conflict of interest law (Proposition 9 on last June's ballot) could lead to a challenge that would remove them from the bridge board as well as the committee. Fraser said he had not discussed his decision with either man, but noted he had talked with other directors about their preferences for committee assignments.

Del Carlo told the Independent-Journal he was "not very happy about it," but that he will attend the committee's meetings anyway. Mazzola could not be reached.

Other district officials privately predicted organized labor will launch a strong protest to Fraser's action against Del Carlo and Mazzola. Labor traditionally has been represented on district committees which deal with issues of interest to it.

Del Carlo said that because of his membership on the committee he had been "instrumental in preventing a number of strikes."

Del Carlo retained his chairmanship of the building and operating committee, while Mazzola lost his position as vice chairman of the transportation committee. He was replaced by the past president of the board, Stephen C. Loenoudakis of San Francisco.

New Quentin Prison Plan

A plan to house only the state's toughest inmates at San Quentin is being considered by officials of the state Department of Corrections and the prison.

A high-level meeting was held at the prison today to evaluate the plan, said prison information officer William D. Nyberg. If the plan is put into action, San Quentin's population, which now hovers around 2,700, would be reduced to 2,000.

Except for about 600 honor workers, the rest of the inmates will be prisoners who have "demonstrated violent behavior," said Nyberg.

Numerous meetings involving department of corrections officials have been held in the past two weeks on similar plans, said Nyberg.

Also under consideration is closing almost all of the prison industries.

Chou Says U.S. And Russia Pushing World Toward War

Chinese Leader Hostile In Remarks On Kremlin

HONG KONG (UPI) — Chinese Premier Chou En-lai, newly confirmed in his powerful position, warned in a speech released today that a new world war is in the making.

The 76-year old Chou spoke to the just concluded National People's Congress which adopted a new constitution naming Chairman Mao Tse-tung as commander in chief of the armed forces and abolishing the post of head of state. It was the first NPC in 10 years.

Although Chou's 3,300-word report was delivered Jan. 13, the first day of the five-day NPC meeting, it was released only today by the New China News Agency. Nearly half of it was devoted to international affairs.

"The contention for world hegemony between the two superpowers, the United States and the Soviet Union, is becoming more and more intense," Chou said.

"Their contention has extended to every corner of the world, the focus of their contention being Europe."

"The two superpowers are the biggest international oppressors and exploiters today, and they are the source of a new world war. Their fierce competition is bound to lead to world war some day."

Chou advised that "the people of all countries must get prepared" for the eventual new world war.

"In this world, at present," Chou said, "the factors for both revolution and war are increasing. Whether war gives rise to revolution or revolution prevents war, in either case the international situation will develop in a direction favorable to the people and the future of the world."

Chou reiterated the frequently repeated Chinese position that China "will never seek hegemony; we will never be a superpower; we will always stand with the oppressed people and oppressed nations throughout the world."

The historic new constitution adopted by the Congress last night formalizes the virtually absolute power of Chairman Mao, now 81. It named him commander in chief of the armed forces and designated the NPC as the "highest organ of state power, under the leadership of the Communist party."

Despite Chou's accusation that the United States and the Soviet Union are the two greatest threats to peace in the world, he reserved a few hopeful words about the developing Sino-American relationship.

Chou stressed that fundamental differences continue to exist between the United States and China. But he took note of the efforts that have been made so far to achieve closer cooperation and understanding.

"Owing to the joint efforts of both sides," Chou said, "the relations between the two countries have improved... The relations between the two countries will continue to improve so long as the principles of the Sino-American Shanghai Communiqué (signed at the end of President Richard M. Nixon's visit to China in 1972) are carried out in earnest."

Chou's comments about the Soviet Union were far more hostile. He accused the Russian leaders of having "betrayed Marxism-Leninism" and said China's debate with the Soviet Union "on matters of principle will go on for a long time."

Ford Plans News Session To Explain His Programs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Fashioning the details of his economic-energy package, President Ford today prepared a proclamation to tighten oil imports and promised a news conference tomorrow to further explain these measures.

Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford's news conference — the first of 1975 — will begin at 5 p.m. PST in the auditorium of the Old Executive Office Building. It will be televised nationally.

Nessen said Ford will issue a proclamation later this week to raise the fee on all imported crude oil and petroleum products $1 per barrel on Feb. 1; $2 per barrel on March 1, and $3 per barrel on April 1.

By the end of January, he said, Ford also will have submitted to Congress his legislative proposals for slapping a $2 a barrel excise tax on all domestic and imported crude oil. He also will urge Congress to pass an investment tax credit for business which would be retroactive to Jan. 1.

Sources originally said that Ford was preparing another proclamation dealing in some way with the investment tax credit. Such action, however, cannot be carried out by presidential action alone.

Ford discussed these and other measures in the White House today with Budget Director Roy Ash, Chairman Alan Greenspan of the Council of Economic Advisers and L. Willman Seidman, presidential assistant for economic affairs.

Treasury Secretary William Simon did not go to the White House session and aides explained he had another meeting.

Ford also was to meet with his nuclear and atomic experts to discuss the details of his energy conservation program.

Demo Caucus Votes To Create Panel To Probe CIA And FBI

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Over the objections of Sen. John C. Stennis, the Senate Democratic Caucus today voted to create a select committee to investigate the CIA, FBI and other intelligence-gathering agencies.

Sen. John Pastore, D-R.I., announced the caucus decided by a vote of 45-7 to create a select investigating committee similar to the Watergate committee and composed of seven to 11 members. It is supposed to issue its report by Sept. 1.

The full Senate must approve such a committee, but approval seemed assured because of the Democratic majority.

Stennis, D-Miss., whose Senate Armed Services Committee has oversight responsibilities for the Central Intelligence Agency, opposed the creation of a select committee.

Earlier in the morning, his impassioned voice could be heard booming from behind the closed doors of the Senate Democratic Caucus, pleading that the CIA should be protected.

"I think the present operations of the CIA have been impaired and I hope to see it restored as soon as possible," Stennis said at a news conference after the 2½ hour caucus meeting.

According to the decision of the caucus, Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield and Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott will select members for the committee and forward them to the president pro tempore of the Senate who will announce the final appointments.

Pastore said, "We want something new, something fresh, so the public will have the appearance of objectivity," Pastore said. "Objectivity is essential."

President Ford's eight-member investigating commission, headed by Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller, meanwhile held its second private session into the allegations — including two hours of scheduled testimony by former CIA director Richard Helms.

Stennis appeared to be warning the caucus of the dangers which could threaten the Central Intelligence Agency if a select committee were created for a two-year period as proposed by Sen. Charles Mathias, R-Md., with the backing of Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield.

Stennis described the CIA as a highly developed and efficient intelligence gathering agency vital to U.S. security. It was not clear, however, whether Stennis was arguing against the creation of a select committee and Capitol Hill police quickly ordered newsmen to move away from the door to the room where Stennis was speaking.

Stennis held hearings last week before the intelligence subcommittee of the Senate Appropriation Committee during which CIA Director William E. Colby detailed domestic intelligence activities of the CIA.

Prior to hearing from Helms, the Rockefeller commission, also called former CIA Director John McCone and Patrick Coyne, former executive secretary of the President's foreign intelligence advisory board and one-time aide to Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

There was no official explanation for Coyne's appearance. Rockefeller served on the foreign intelligence advisory board for many years.

Bus Riders On Increase

The number of commuters riding Golden Gate Transit buses has increased since the exclusive bus lanes opened Dec. 20 on Highway 101, Golden Gate Bridge District officials reported today.

A count today showed that morning southbound riders totaled 9,019, up by more than 500 from the months before the lanes between Greenbrae and Strawberry opened.

The count also exceeded the 8,715 commute riders reported for the same Monday a year ago during the gasoline shortage, Bus Transit Mgr. H. Donald White said. He credited the increase over the year to both the addition of the exclusive bus lanes and 900 additional seats on expanded commuter runs.

Two More Banks Drop Prime Rate

NEW YORK (AP) — Two more banks today adopted the lower 9% per cent prime lending rate, the rate banks charge their biggest corporate borrowers.

New York's Chemical Bank, now the nation's sixth largest commercial bank after acquiring the ailing Security National Bank, posted the new rate from 10 per cent, effective today, while the First National Bank of Chicago, eighth largest, said the new rate would begin Tuesday.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Navy's Secrets Really Aren't

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Retired Rear Adm. Gene LaRocque, who heads the Center for Defense Information, says only 5 per cent of the information classified as secret by the Navy is legitimate.

The other 95 per cent of the Navy's secrets are actually facts being hidden from the other services, Congress and the public, LaRocque contends.

"About 50 per cent of what is classified in the Navy is designed to keep it from the Army and the Air Force and the Secretary of Defense," LaRocque, a harsh critic of military secrecy said.

"About 25 per cent is designed to be kept secret from Congress, and about 20 per cent from the State Department and the public."

"The other 5 per cent is legitimate."

Leary Plans New Testimony

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Onetime LSD apostle and fugitive Timothy Leary is still turning state's evidence.

Leary, who recently was a witness for federal authorities, is expected to testify for the state in its case to fire a prison psychologist, the Sacramento Bee reported.

The newspaper said Leary would appear this week at a closed meeting before a state personnel board hearing officer at an undisclosed Northern California correctional facility.

The paper said Leary and Joanna Harcourt-Smith, his companion since federal narcotics agents found him two years ago in Afghanistan, would testify against Dr. Edward Wesley Hiler.

Hiler, 50, a staff psychologist at the California Medical Facility at Vacaville, was fired last Aug. 13. The Department of Corrections accused Hiler of interviewing Leary at the Vacaville facility last year without authorization and of taping the sessions for use by a magazine writer.

On Nixon Pardon

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's son John says that in accepting a presidential pardon Richard M. Nixon "admitted his own complicity" in the Watergate scandal, according to the Philadelphia Sunday Bulletin.

The newspaper quoted Eisenhower as saying the pardon was "the right thing," but that Nixon's acceptance of it was an admission of guilt. He added that the news media was not responsible for forcing him out of office.

Eisenhower, the father-in-law of Nixon's daughter Julie, said, however, he did not believe Nixon should be pressured any longer about Watergate.

Indian Demands

GRESHAM, Wis. (UPI) — Demands by a band of American Indians for an unconditional pardon and a deed to the land has damaged hopes for an early settlement to their 20-day-old occupation of an abbey.

The Indians occupying the Alexian Brothers novitiate took the militant stand Saturday, repeated their demands yesterday and said they would rather die than compromise.

"They're willing to die to do this (get the site)," Ted Boyd, chairman of the Menominee Peoples Committee, said yesterday. "They want to do what they can to help the Menominee tribe."

In addition to the pardon and deed to the land, the militants want good housing and better education for Indians. Boyd also said the Warrior Society demands the resignation of the present Menominee tribal leadership, made up mostly of women.

Arrests Ordered

ATHENS (UPI) — A public prosecutor today ordered the arrest of former dictator George Papadopoulos and four of his lieutenants on charges of high treason and insurrection — offenses punishable by death.

The four lieutenants are former deputy premiers Stylianos Pattakos and Nicholas Makarezos, former minister of public order Ioannis Ladas and former Greek intelligence chief Michael Roufoglalis.

They will be tried for involvement in the 1967 military takeover, a spokesman for the prosecutor said.

Joins Price War

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Corp. announced today it is joining the price war among major automakers and will pay rebates ranging from $200 to $500 to buyers of its entire subcompact and compact model lines.

Chairman Thomas A. Murphy said the rebates will go directly to customers and are retroactive to customers who bought cars from Jan. 13.

Chrysler Corp., American Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co. previously announced their own rebate programs in an effort to lure prospective buyers into showrooms and stimulate lagging new car sales.

GM, the giant of the industry, said it would pay $200 rebates to buyers of all Chevrolet Vega, Pontiac Astre, Chevrolet Nova, Pontiac Ventura, Oldsmobile Omega and Buick Apollo and Skylark models.

Golf Waste Hit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department spends $13.9 million a year to maintain and operate 300 military golf courses in the United States and around the world, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said today.

In a Senate speech, Proxmire said the use of federal funds to run military golf courses is "a waste of the taxpayers' money in a time of inflation compounded by recession."

"If they use taxpayers' funds, they should open up the courses to public use on a space available basis," Proxmire said.

He said a study by the General Accounting Office found there are 20 U.S. military golf courses in Germany alone, 10 in Japan, 6 in Korea, 4 in the Philippines, 3 each in Spain and Puerto Rico, 2 apiece in Turkey and Italy, and 1 each in Morocco, Midway, Canada, the Canal Zone, England, Thailand and Johnson Atoll.

Bridge Blown Up

SAIGON (UPI) — Viet Cong commandos blew up a bridge on the outskirts of Saigon today in the third attack against the capital's suburban bridges in less than two weeks.

In Cambodia, rebel gunners shelled Phnom Penh and the city's airport, killing four persons and wounding 32. Insurgents also shelled the Mekong River town of Neak Luong, killing two persons and wounding 13.

The military commands in Saigon and Phnom Penh conceded that attacks around both cities have increased dramatically but insisted the raids have yet to threaten the capitals.

The Saigon command said Communists blew up the 60-yard-long Muong Suoi Bridge this morning, striking near Nha Be, the nation's major fuel storage depot.

Ullman Favors Rationing Over An Extra Gas Tax

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, said today he favors gasoline rationing over President Ford's proposed energy taxes as a way of reducing fuel consumption.

Ullman admitted that rationing is a "tough bullet to bite," but he said, "Rationing, it seems to me, is going to be the ultimate objective and the thing we're going to have to do."

He said it would be "almost impossible" to convince Congress to pass Ford's energy tax proposals because it is an "unfair way of applying a tax on energy."

Ullman's assessment coincided with the latest Gallup Poll which said 55 per cent of the American public prefer nationwide rationing of gasoline over Ford's $30 billion energy tax plan. Thirty-two per cent said they felt Ford's tax plan is the best way to reduce the country's use of gasoline.

FRANK ZARB
Sees higher prices

Yesterday Energy Administrator Frank Zarb said Ford's new energy proposals may ultimately drive the price of gasoline up higher than the extra 10 cents a gallon previously discussed by administration officials.

Zarb said the 10-cent figure represents only the average impact on all types of refined petroleum products expected to result from the $3 per barrel tariff increase Ford plans to impose on all imported crude oil.

"The average price of petroleum product will go up 10 cents a gallon," Zarb said.

"The average price of gasoline may go up somewhat more, but that means ... the products people need day-in and day-out and have little choice over, such as fuel oil, may (go up) a little less than 10 cents a gallon."

Zarb, who was interviewed on CBS's Face the Nation, did not say how high the price of gasoline might climb.

In another interview, Interior Secretary Rogers Morton did not disagree when it was suggested that the Ford plan might bring a 14 or 15 cent per gallon gasoline increase.

West Virginia Textbook Protester Made Kleagle In KKK's Probe

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Textbook protester Ed Miller took on his new role as a Ku Klux Klan kleagle, as robed compatriots of the "invisible empire" sat in his living room to read Kanawha County's disputed school books.

Miller brought the Klan to West Virginia's capital for an "investigation" of the long-running feud, one that has provoked fights, bombs, strikes, boycotts and general unrest.

The Klan reciprocated this weekend by taking Miller in and making him a kleagle, or local leader, meaning he can sign new members of the hooded fraternity.

Miller denies that KKK officials had new members rather than textbooks on their minds during the weekend visit.

Yet, the former coal miner talked of an intense drive in membership "to unify the ci-zens of Kanawha County," hoping to wield sufficient pressure on the legislature, the governor, and the Board of Education to remove 325 controversial textbooks.

"One hell of a Communist book," a Lodi, Ohio Klansman said during the gathering in Miller's home.

"You hear that?" Miller said. "That man's stomach is about to turn over. We're reading these books right now, about 35 of the best ones, I mean the best of the whole group, that I could confiscate, steal, rob and get without someone coming at me."

Miller says the KKK has pledged legal services through its battery of "high caliber lawyers" to defend Rev. Marvin Horan and five other Campbell Creek residents accused of bombing two elementary schools last fall.

Reusch, a Lodi auto worker and the presidential hopeful of the National Knights of the KKK, boasting a 289,000 membership, said federal authorities "created more friction and animosity between the citizens of this state by going ahead and persecuting these men."

Reusch wants to make another visit here in two or three weeks to lay plans for asking the school board to reverse its decision in restoring disputed books after they were reviewed and approved by a citizens panel.

Miller says the KKK won't relent until the school books are tossed out, for good.

"If we can stomp out this fire here, we can put it out everywhere, he said. "The people are tired of being ruled by an iron hand. We're going to bring America back to the Americans."

U.S. Center Riot Halted By Makarios

NICOSIA (UPI) — President Archbishop Makarios today waded into one of the worst anti-American riots since Ambassador Rodger Davies was shot and killed last summer and persuaded a crowd of brick-throwing demonstrators to leave before they could storm a building housing American diplomatic offices.

"Your voice is that of people who have been wronged," Makarios told the crowd. "But I beg of you not to commit acts of violence."

Thousands of rock-throwing demonstrators had pushed back riot police and national guard troops and stormed into the courtyard of the American Center.

The crowd, mostly students protesting alleged American pro-Turkish policies, tore down barbed wire barricades, rushed through smoke from dozens of tear gas grenades and forced security forces back with a hail of bricks.

They swarmed into the courtyard of the two-story building, tore down railings, smashed a showcase, pulled down an American flag and hoisted a Greek flag in its place.

Helmeted national guard troops fired automatic rifles over their heads, and a fire engine hosed them with water.

The rioters picked up tear gas canisters and threw them back at police.

Makarios led most of the

The U.S. embassy and the offices of the British High Commission were stormed and ransacked on Saturday.

Don't make any deal till you see your Chevrolet Dealer.

No matter what kind of price or sales talk you've been hearing, see your Chevrolet dealer before you buy.

□ He's anxious to give you his best possible deal. And according to Manufacturers' Suggested Retail Prices, he can begin by offering you the lowest priced car in many model categories, including America's lowest priced wagon (Vega), America's lowest priced mid-size car (Chevelle Malibu Sedan Six), and America's lowest priced full-size car (Bel Air Sedan).

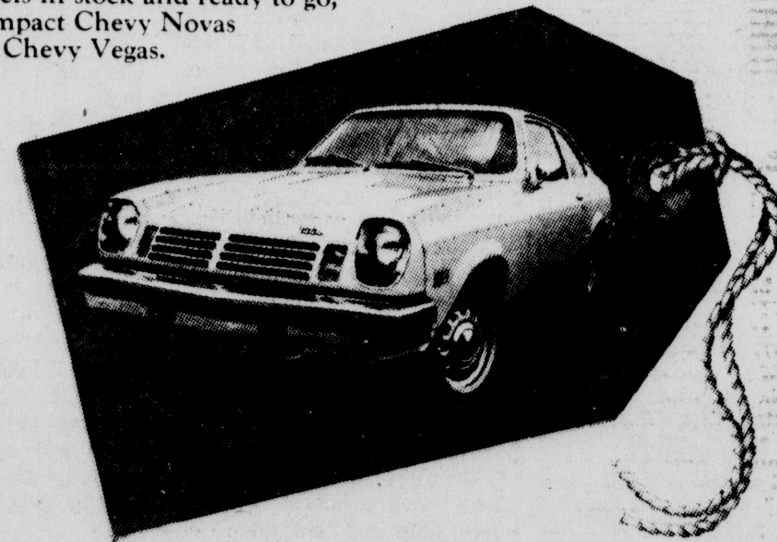

□ He can also offer a high trade-in on many used cars, so the actual cost of your new Chevrolet might be much lower than you'd expect.

He deals in America's favorite car—Chevrolet—which means you can get traditionally high resale value in a car you'll really like to own. And he has a wide range of models in stock and ready to go, right now, including compact Chevy Novas and economy-plus Chevy Vegas.

NOVA. A proved value in compact cars.

Pick the base Nova, Nova Custom, or luxurious new Nova LN. Whichever you decide on, you get a reliable, roomy, solidly built, easy-to-drive, easy-to-park compact car. There are two standard Nova engines: an economical six-cylinder or 4.3-liter V8. And the VEGA. Best overall EPA gas mileage of any 4-cylinder American-built car.

Vega gives you economy plus a lot of choices. The Vega Hatchback, America's most popular hatchback, is already priced below its nearest competitor. Other Vega models include America's lowest priced wagon, the Vega Notchback, the Notchback LX and the Vega Estate Wagon. And the '75 Vega is engineered to cost about $240 less in scheduled maintenance than the '74 (in 50,000 miles of driving).

ANDERSEN'S INTRODUCES STEAMLINER

A REVOLUTIONARY NEW AGITATING STEAM CLEANING PROCESS

DIAGRAMED BELOW IS THE PATENTED POWER BRUSH HEAD INSTEAD OF JUST INJECTING STEAM AND EXTRACTING IT, STEAMLINER USES A REVOLVING NYLON BRUSH TO GENTLY MASSAGE THE SOIL, OIL-GRIT TO THE SURFACE OF THE CARPET FOR IMMEDIATE EXTRACTION.

WITH THIS ADDED AGITATION MORE SOIL CAN BE EXTRACTED THAN EVER BEFORE, YOU HAVE TO SEE IT TO BELIEVE IT.

1. THERMATICALLY HEATED WET STEAM INJECTED DEEP INTO CARPET

2. ADJUSTABLE BRUSH MASSAGES ALL SOIL TO THE SURFACE OF CARPET.

3. IMMEDIATE EXTRACTION OF SOIL.

Tunnel Under Liddy Promises Judge Channel He'll Surrender Self Seems Dead

LONDON (UPI) — The 19th century dream of building an undersea tunnel between Britain and continental Europe appears to be a victim of 20th century inflation.

Government sources said they expect Environment Minister Anthony Crosland to announce in Parliament today that Britain is pulling out of a $2.4 billion project with France to build the 32-mile "chunnel" under the English channel.

The sources said the cabinet decided Thursday to withdraw from the project because of sharply increased costs at a time when the British economy is floundering.

Advance reports of the British decision already prompted harsh reaction from French government officials who had counted on the project to stimulate France's depressed north-west coastal region.

French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing discussed British intentions with several of his ministers in Paris Saturday.

Yesterday, Foreign Minister Michel Sauvagnargues said Britain would have to pay construction firms for breaking contracts if it pulls out unilaterally from the project.

Total compensation would amount to around $120 million, according to unofficial estimates.

A British withdrawal was foreshadowed in November when the government scrapped plans for a high-speed rail link between London and the tunnel entrance. The cost had tripled to $895 million in just over a year.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — G. Gordon Liddy, who has received the stiffest sentences of any Watergate defendant, told Chief U.S. District Judge George L. Hart today that he will surrender Wednesday at the federal prison in Danbury, Conn.

In a brief courtroom appearance, Liddy offered his personal guarantee that he would submit himself to serve the remainder of a term of six years and eight months to 20 years for masterminding the 1972 Watergate break-in.

The Supreme Court last week turned down Liddy's appeal.

Liddy, a former FBI agent who was finance counsel for President Richard M. Nixon's 1972 re-election committee, has been sentenced to prison for at least three separate Watergate-related offenses.

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica sentenced him to up to 20 years for the Watergate break-in. Then, when Liddy refused to testify before the grand jury, Sirica also sentenced him to serve 18 months for contempt of court.

Last July, Liddy was sentenced to serve one to three years for his part in the 1971 break-in at the office of a psychiatrist who treated Pentagon papers defendant Daniel Ellsberg.

Liddy's contempt sentence ended last September. He was released Oct. 15, pending the outcome of his appeal, so he actually has served only about one month for the Watergate break-in.

His total time of 21 months in prison is by far the longest of any Watergate defendant.

In another development, former White House domestic affairs chief John D. Ehrlichman charged that the prosecution in the recent Watergate cover-up trial failed to show that the had consented to the taping of White House conversations that were presented in the evidence.

Ehrlichman, one of four Nixon aides found guilty of conspiracy in that trial, filed an additional two-page motion for a new trial.

Fischer Named

BERLIN (UPI) — East Germany today named Oskar Fischer, a former tailor, as its new foreign minister, replacing Otto Winzer who resigned for health reasons, the East German news agency ADN said.

PARDON MY REACH

Groucho, a one-winged female pelican, stretches for a tasty fish during feeding time at the Boyd Marin Museum of Science in San Rafael. The bird, about 2 years old, has been cared for by the museum for some four months, since it lost a wing to a fish hook. For "afternoon tea" it consumes more than two dozen small fish, which are being handed to the feathered consumer by curator Leslie Rowe.

Medicare Fund Plan Is Asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Social Security Advisory Council has voted to recommend diverting Medicare funds to support old age and retirement benefits.

General revenues would be used in substantial amounts for the first time to replace the diverted Medicare funds. Eventually, the revenues would give the hospital portion of the health insurance program for the aged some of the financing characteristics of a welfare program, possibly by the beginning next year.

If Congress approves the recommendation, the money raised from payroll taxes to provide the government's share of hospital insurance for 23.5 million older Americans would be reallocated "on a gradual, as needed" basis to the monthly cash benefits trust funds, according to an observer at the weekend meetings of the 13-member council.

As the hospital funds are reallocated, general revenues would be used to replace them until the government's portion of Medicare is financed from general revenues, like welfare for needy families and aid to the needy aged, blind and disabled.

The council reversed its earlier recommendation to Congress to raise payroll taxes.

Dominican is offering a memory improvement course to be held...uh... to be held...uh...let me see...to be held...uh...

Well, to find out about the memory improvement course, you'll have to call Dr. Steve Padover, the Dean of Continuing Education at Dominican. He'll tell you about some other interesting courses, too. Like one called "But I'm Not An Artist." It'll awaken creativity in you that you don't know you have.

Then there's one called "Rites of Passage," which is as mysterious and stimulating as it sounds.

Some others include: "Before the Mortar Dries: A Special Enhancement Workshop for Young Couples," "Conscious Photography," "Personal Financial Planning," and "Alternate Energy Systems."

There are 17 courses in all in the Dominican Continuing Education program. Dr. Padover will send you a list of them all, and tell you how to enroll. Just call 457-4440. That's 457-4440. Don't forget.

A REDUCING SECRET!

In his fascinating book, A DOCTOR'S QUICK WAY TO ACHIEVE LASTING BEAUTY, Robert A. Franklin, M.D. says the quality of protein is what counts in reducing diets. This assures good amino acid balance, an absolute necessity for a sound weight reduction program. Otherwise, a so-called high protein diet can, he warns, be dangerous!

The famous beauty specialist recommends a top quality, defatted, defibered organ meat supplement. We find MALABAR is ideal, because it contains nothing but selected organ meats. Dieters taking it report remarkable results and peak vitality, without hunger pangs. Ask for our special MALABAR recipes.

FBI Dossiers Denied On Congressmen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — While several congressmen promised a complete inquiry, Attorney General William French Smith said today that the FBI keeps files on members of Congress. Smith said the FBI keeps files on members of Congress. Smith said the FBI keeps files on members of Congress. Smith said the FBI keeps files on members of Congress.

Homemaker Is School Candidate

Phyllis J. Lechner, a 42-year-old Cotati homemaker, is a candidate for one of two seats on the Cotati-Robert Park School District Board in the March 4 election. Mrs. Lechner said she is seeking public office for the first time because she wants to maintain the quality of the local schools. That quality was a chief factor in her family's move to Southern Sonoma a year and a half ago after her husband, August, retired from the Air Force. The couple has three children who attend Cotati and Thomas Page schools. Mrs. Lechner graduated from St. Olaf College in her native Minnesota with a degree in English and library science. She taught those subjects six years at a Lutheran high school in Los Angeles and taught a year at a school for children of military families in the Azores Islands. Mrs. Lechner said she favors local control of schools and thus would support the district's present effort to form a unified district of its own elementary schools and the local secondary schools which now are operated by the Petaluma district 10 miles to the south.

But, she said, her final position on unification will depend on more intensive study of the financial and political changes such a move would entail. Mrs. Lechner, who lives with her family in Western Cotati, is a member of the Cotati School Early Childhood Education Advisory Committee, a volunteer teacher's aide at both schools her children attend, a deacon of Robert Park's Cross and Crown Lutheran Church and president of the Cotati-Thomas Page Parent-Teacher Association.

Noted American Painter Is Dead

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Thomas Hart Benton painted for the common American, the critics be damned. The nation mourned his death today. Benton, 85, collapsed at his home last night. He was rushed to Menorah Medical Center where he was pronounced dead. The cause of death was not immediately determined. His many murals and paintings show homespun scenes from everyday life in strong, bold lines and bright colors. He painted farmers in the field, hillbillies fiddling and drinking and black sharecroppers picking cotton. Benton's paintings always carried an earthy tone. One which hangs in the Missouri capitol in Jefferson City depicts so much of the seamy side of his native state's history it touched off controversy which raged for years. Another mural, painted for the Indiana statehouse, touched off a furor because it depicted the rise of the Ku Klux Klan. Benton's answer to the critics was that "these incidents are a part of the whole history of the state and should be included. You've got to take the warts with the good stuff."

THOMAS HART BENTON - Truman's favorite artist

The next 20 years were the most experimental of the artist's life as he dabbled in abstraction and then developed the bold and realistic style for which he was to become famous. He later rejected abstractionist paintings as "artistic decadence." Along with Grant Wood and John Stuart Curry, Benton painted primarily the Midwest in the 1930s and all three came to be known as practitioners of "regionalism." Though he considered himself a Socialist in the 1930s, with the coming of the Great Depression he objected to radical politics which insisted that art should be subordinated to propaganda. In 1935, he became dissatisfied with cities and with the East and moved to Missouri. From the middle 1940s until his death, Benton divided his years between homes in Kansas City and Martha's Vineyard, Mass. painting and writing each day with the rise of the sun. In his later years, he reduced his volume of paintings. Benton's wife, the former Rita Piacenza, whom he married in 1923, served as his business agent. The couple had two children, a son, Thomas, and a daughter, Jessie.

Usery Said Next Labor Secretary

NEW YORK (UPI) — W.J. Usery, head of the Federal Mediation Service, may be the next secretary of labor. Newsweek magazine reported yesterday. President Ford appears to be "on the verge" of naming Usery to replace Peter Brennan at the cabinet post, the magazine said. Congress is to consider two other Ford cabinet choices — William Thaddeus Coleman Jr., for secretary of transportation, and Edward Levi for attorney general.

Belief In Santa Claus Is Hard To Dispel

Independent Journal

8 SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, MONDAY, JANUARY 20, 1975 EDITORIAL PAGE

When we are little, we believe in Santa Claus. It never occurs to us that someone has to pay for those good things found in the stocking or under the tree on Christmas morning. They are brought by a good saint who lives at the North Pole, our parents tell us.

Some parents object to this. They think children should not be led to believe in an unreal gift-giver. But most parents encourage their little ones to believe in Santa Claus. "They'll find out soon enough that there is no Santa Claus," they say.

A lot of us, it seems, never find out.

TAKE, FOR INSTANCE, Marin Community College District.

Over a decade ago, College of Marin faced the fact that enrollment was outstripping its facilities. The district's trustees moved to meet the financial need in the most painless way possible. Instead of expensive bond issues, they proposed that residents authorize a special tax for capital improvements only, which would be used for new facilities at Kentfield and to establish a second campus in North Marin, on a pay-as-you-go basis.

Voters approved the idea, taxing themselves to provide for college expansion by what appeared to be the most economical method.

The trustees then hired architects to plan what was needed at Kentfield and the second campus. The architects got somewhat carried away, and carried the trustees away with them. And, to complicate things, inflation kept adding to the projected costs — although that inflation was at a rate which in retrospect appears very mild.

Anyhow, because of inflation or over-enthusiasm or both, the money raised by the special tax did not provide all that was planned for Kentfield, and it only bought the land for the North Marin campus.

AND SO, like many another board, before and since, the college district board turned to Santa Claus — two Santa Clauses, in fact: one called Washington and one called Sacramento.

And — again like many another board — the college trustees ignored the fact that Santa can put in the Christmas stocking only what mama and papa can buy.

Washington Santa Claus let them down first. Disguised as the Nixon Administration, he cut down on the largesse he was dispensing from the pockets of the taxpayers, including some that was on the Marin Community College District's Christmas list.

This month, Sacramento Santa Claus followed suit. In the unlikely disguise of "New Spirit" Jerry Brown, he whacked off some $1.5 million state funds on which the district was depending to keep putting up buildings at Novato.

But adult belief in Santa Claus is a hardy belief. It defies both logic and economics. Informed of Brown's cuts, Supt. John A. Grasham of the college district responded that the district hopes to get them restored by pleading its case in Sacramento.

MANY LITTLE children, on Christmas morning, don't find all the goodies they asked Santa Claus to bring. Their parents have to explain that Santa has so many children to look after, he can't fill every request of every one.

The little children are expected to understand that. Maybe someone can explain it to the grownup Santa Claus-believers so they will understand too.

"I am raising import fees on each barrel of foreign crude oil by $3."

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Colthurst Family Appreciates Memorial

We want to thank all of Ed Colthurst's friends who worked so hard toward having the American flag installed in the Corte Madera Town Park and commemorating it in his name.

It is so gratifying to know how many people appreciated his dedication to the town. Words cannot express how deeply we, his family, appreciate all of the kindness extended in his behalf.

Mrs. IVY COLTHURST
Corte Madera.

Parking Tickets Unfair At Unemployment Office

I think it's really unfeeling of the San Rafael Police Department to allow parking tickets on E Street and the close vicinity.

As I drove by Friday I noticed two and three tickets on some of the cars and one on most of the others. They are obviously cars of people waiting in the ever-growing line at the unemployment office.

These people are already out of work and out of money and to leave the line to pull money in the meters might jeopardize their place.

Now on top of all their other worries they have two, four, or six dollars in tickets to pay out.

CAROLYN SMITH
San Rafael.

Suspension To Result From Doing Duty?

My conceptions concerning Officer Joseph Leonard are better expressed by Charles L. Southern, whose letter to the editor was published in the Independent Journal dated Jan. 14.

I completely agree with Mr. Southern's impressions of our laws. Are we to protect only the criminal?

I am personally acquainted with a number of dedicated police officers and hesitate to think they have only to look forward to suspension and reprimanding after they have carried out their duties in just such a case.

Mrs. MARTHA RODGERS
San Rafael

'Buses Only' Lane Merely Creates Bottleneck

No matter how well intentioned, the "permit buses only" lane between Greenbrae and Richardson Bay Bridge has only succeeded in creating an intolerable bottleneck for most traffic during commute hours.

Instead of speeding up commute buses, this plan is merely congesting auto, truck and local bus traffic in this area from a normal high speed flow in four lanes to a sometimes bumper-to-bumper situation in three lanes.

This is easily proven by observing the traffic flow increase to speed-limit levels for all vehicles at the end of the south-bound restricted lane where four lanes are available.

The present plan benefits a mere handful of Marin commuters, i.e. those on express buses from San Rafael, north. Buses serving bus stops between Greenbrae and Mill Valley are stuck with the rest of the congested traffic in outside lanes available for loading and unloading passengers.

As a further hazard, Highway Patrol cars must cross three lanes of heavy commute traffic to flash down hapless violators who are not aware of the restricted lanes, then herd them back thru traffic to issue citations on the outer shoulder.

For years, Marin commuters have suffered the inconvenience of multi-million dollar highway construction with the assurance of free-flowing traffic at long last. Now this has been negated and commute traffic is no less congested than before the widening project.

Mill Valley Recreation Classes Defended

I would like to respond to Mr. Thomas Collison's recent letter, "Suggested Changes in Education Program."

1. The classes offered by the Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Department are purely intended to be recreational.

As one surveys our current lifestyle, troubled economy, etc., I believe that recreation will become even more vital to a community. As we become more science (sic) of fuel consumption and as a result of more people living in apartments (rather than single-family dwellings which have provided, in most cases, area for children to play and gardens for the entire family to work and enjoy), there will be a vital need for an outlet of an individual's energy.

2. All of Mill Valley Parks and Recreation classes are scheduled according to public request and upon offering are either expanded (if the class has good response) or is dropped for lack of enrollment.

3. Many citizens are not aware of the fact that the Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Department established a "community garden" project (due to, at the time, public interest) which was initiated but physical participation faded.

4. Upon the city's acquisition of the Edgewood Botanical Garden, volunteers were organized to supervise high school students in what could be termed a "work and learn" situation, whereby students selected a specific science class which offered them the opportunity to spend several hours per week working under supervision and guidance in plant identification, weeding, cultivating, watering, etc.

Promises, Promises — But No Facilities

Your editorial of Jan. 4 was read to our regular membership meeting. All present expressed deep satisfaction and "It's about time." For so long we have fought the planning commission, board of supervisors and other county departments. Always we end up with a refusal of any development.

You are well aware of the thousands who visit this area yearly. We have no more facilities here today than we had ten years ago. The only exception is the Olema Ranch campgrounds. On weekends gas stations and small businesses have to lock their restrooms to prevent flooding into streets.

At the present time the Marin Coast Chamber of Commerce is trying to get the county to put in a roadside rest area in the vicinity of Point Reyes Station. We understand that some years ago $30,000 was allocated the County parks and Recreation Department for such an installation. To date we have no sign of a rest area.

As you pointed out we were promised that motels, restaurants and other needed services for visitors would be encouraged in West Marin to help offset property tax loss. Instead the county and associated groups have denied any development of any kind.

JOSEPH C. HARSCH:

Vietnam Arms Limit Dooms Saigon

The greatest single danger to the survival of a non-Communist government in South Vietnam does not come from what its enemies can expect to win on the field of battle during the present fighting season. It comes rather from the box into which Congress has put American diplomacy on this matter.

The administration originally asked for $1.45 billion for military aid to South Vietnam during the coming year. Congress cut this to $700 million. Meanwhile, the Russians and Chinese continue to provide military aid to North Vietnam at roughly the level which the administration had intended to provide for South Vietnam. This means that the enemies of the Saigon government can afford to spend ammunition freely, knowing that they have the advantage in weapons. And they will continue to have the advantage so long as Congress puts an arbitrary limit on what the United States can spend on weapons for South Vietnam.

WORSE THAN THIS immediate disadvantage is the fact that so long as Congress fixes an arbitrary low limit, Secy. of State Henry Kissinger is deprived of bargaining power. He cannot go to the Russians and the Chinese and offer to limit what we provide to Saigon if they will put a corresponding limit on what they give to Hanoi. Had he such bargaining power, he could do for Southeast Asia what he is able to do over in the Middle East.

Dr. Kissinger has substantial bargaining power over the Middle East because Congress is ready to provide any amount of arms for Israel. Dr. Kissinger can talk business in Moscow because he can promise to restrain Congress on arms to Israel if they will put "reasonable" limits on what they provide to Israel's enemies. There has always been some balance in respective arms deliveries to the two sides in the Middle East.

But an arbitrary limit fixed by Congress on arms to Saigon will ultimately doom the cause of anti-communism in South Vietnam. Peking and Moscow only need to provide just a little more than Congress's limit — and their client sooner or later wins.

It is high time for Americans to consider thoughtfully whether they are willing to allow this to happen.

True, there is no contractual obligation on Americans to sustain the anti-Communist cause in South Vietnam. There never was a contractual obligation, no matter how much Lyndon Johnson used to say to the contrary. But there did evolve over the years a moral commitment to those who decided to make a fight for it in Vietnam in the expectation of American support.

I HAVE ALWAYS believed that a serious mistake was made immediately after World War II when Washington rejected the request for aid from Ho Chi Minh. Instead, it decided to back the effort of the French to reclaim their lost colonial position in Vietnam. A great river of human tragedy has flowed from that decision.

However, no one can go back and play that decision the other way. For better or worse, Ho Chi Minh's hand was refused, the French were backed in their eventual failure at Dien Bien Phu, and this is 1975, not 1946.

There are some 20 million persons in South Vietnam, most of whom have proved by their actions that they prefer to live under a non-Communist government than be taken over by the government in Hanoi. They have kept up a struggle against the Communists for the entire lifetime of most of them. They have done so in the expectation of American support.

No one in his right mind would dream of sending American armed forces back into Vietnam. That was a disastrous mistake from the opening moment (when John F. Kennedy was president). But the reasons which exclude direct American military intervention do not necessarily work against matching the amount of military aid which goes to the other side in Vietnam.

If Dr. Kissinger were given a discretionary military budget, he could propose to Peking and Moscow a mutual limit on arms aid to the respective sides. Unless and until he has a discretionary budget in his control, his hands are tied. He has no bargaining power.

Congress could give Dr. Kissinger room for maneuver in this matter by letting him decide how much of American weapons should go to Saigon at any given time. It would be the honorable course of action. It might also be the cheapest.

Mideast Struggle May Be Behind Brezhnev's Troubles

WHY BREZHNEV HAS HIS TROUBLES. Right now it is not clear for sure whether the Soviet leader is diplomatically sick or whether Soviet diplomacy in the Mideast is sick.

It was primarily the Politburo's dissatisfaction with Nikita Khrushchev's involvement with Egypt which brought his downfall in 1964.

Today Brezhnev is in much the same plight. President Sadat has proved as skillful as Nasser in playing off Russia and the United States against each other.

Egypt can get arms only in association with the Russians. It can get peace only in association with the Americans.

Brezhnev is staying home until Cairo decides which way he wants to go.

THE KGB GETS A BREAK. While the American CIA is pretty much sidelined by scandals and investigations, the Soviet KGB is going after more targets in Asia.

The Far Eastern Economic Review reports that Russian secret agents are "steadily expanding" their espionage in that area.

They are not only after anything the United States may be doing, but more than ever the focus is on what the Chinese, still the principal enemy, are up to.

"Our President delivered his message to Congress. You know that is one of the things his contract calls for. It's one of the few stipulated duties of the President, that every once in a while he delivers a message to Congress, to tell them the 'Condition of the Country.'"

"This message, as I say, is to congress; the rest of the people know the condition of the country, for they live in it and are a part of it, but the senators and the congressmen, being in Washington all the time, have no idea what is going on in America, so a President has to tell 'em."

"The country must have been in pretty bad shape, as it took some 12,000 words for the President to tell how bad it was. ## SACRAMENTO SCENE

Governor's 'Shakedown' Doesn't Wreck Capitol

By EARL G. WATERS

Well, the "new spirit," Jerry Brown, arrived to take over the reins as governor and our state capitol has withstood the shock and is still standing even if it isn't earthquake proof.

The truth is the most amazed were those far out supporters of his who expected the capitol dome to tumble down when their hero came charging in. They looked to see the state turned upside-down overnight. Instead they listened to what was almost a replay of Ronald Reagan insofar as state finances and spending. Wearing the mantle of governor does make a man out of a boy in short order, and already one can see Brown's hair turning gray.

TWO OF THE MOST surprised were Assemblymen Richard Alatorre, D-Los Angeles, and Art Torres, D-Monterey Park. They had some weird idea that the governor should consult with the legislators before making his appointments. As if he couldn't make enough mistakes all by himself! As governor he will have more opportunities to err than a head of lettuce has leaves.

Jerry may be short on experience, but he quickly established he isn't short on brains or courage. He barked right back and told them to go pound sand, he would make the appointments. Whether he picks the right people or not, the responsibility rests with him and not with a junta.

The ridiculousness of their demands that the governor confer with the legislators on each of his appointments should have left their faces red. Even though they retorted that they didn't need a civics lesson, it is obvious they do. The constitution provides for a separation of powers between the executive and the legislative branches.

IN THE INITIAL blush, it appears Brown's political strategists were overly cautious in keeping Jerry under wraps all during the campaign. He isn't doing too badly in his first moments in the full spotlight.

It is fitting that, in a state steeped in the Spanish-Mexican tradition, he is selecting some descendants of those who contributed to California's early history. But he has made it clear his appointments are on the basis of qualifications. He has rejected the idea that positions should be filled on a quota system or with persons from "elitist" institutions, as he termed it. He said he looked upon recommendations from "self appointed" minority and special interest committees about the same as he would view stock in a salted gold mine.

The new governor may not be obsessed with suspicion but he is possessed of considerable skepticism. And he is as proud of being governor as a kid with his first suit.

It is this pride which makes him zealously protective of his prerogatives. The matter of appointments is just one of those. And he made certain that another, the budget, bore his imprint. His youth gives him the stamina, and he shows every sign of perhaps being the hardest working governor the state has seen.

Being an energetic skeptic, he is digging into problems in depth. He is demonstrating a firmness in making his own decisions. Who knows? The old capitol may still be standing when Jerry leaves office at the end of his term or terms.

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

In the past, dictatorships always have come with hobnailed boots and tanks and machine guns, but a dictatorship of dossiers, a dictatorship of data banks can be just as repressive, just as chilling, and just as debilitating on our constitutional protections. — Arthur Miller.

Corte Madera Expects No Lack Of Town Manager Applicants

Where do you find a good town manager? That is a question on the minds of Corte Madera town councilmen right now, as they look for a replacement for Ronald E. Bartels, scheduled to depart Jan. 31 after four years at the helm. Councilmen are looking in a variety of administrative nooks and crannies. One source is the City of Watsonville, which swiped Bartels but in return gave Corte Madera a list of persons who had applied for its vacancy. Hardly a fair trade, but what can you do? Councilmen scheduled a series of meetings to scan those applications, but one turned out to be enough. Another source is advertising. The town has placed ads in two leading trade publications, the International City Management Association newsletter and Western Cities magazine, and expects a flood of applications shortly. The terse ad merely tells the city's location, population and size of staff, anticipated salary, requirements (bachelor's degree and three years experience), and adds the notation that the town has had only three managers since 1959. "That indicates stability, believe it or not," said Mayor Robert J. Flahive. City managers, it seems, are quite a mobile lot, changing jobs every few years in an effort to work themselves up the administrative ladder. The council expects about 100 applicants, and plans to interview 10 or 15, Flahive said. Applications will be accepted through Feb. 15, and the council hopes to have the new man on the job March 1, but won't rush it, Flahive said.

THE LARKSPUR POST Office controversy seems to be dying a quiet death. A hoped-for meeting in December between the dissident Friends of the Larkspur Post Office and high officials of the western region of the U.S. Postal Service never came off.

The move of the carriers to Corte Madera is scheduled for Feb. 1, postal officials say. Original target date was Jan. 1, but the move was put off to make sure every carrier had the full 60-day notice beforehand.

CORTE MADERA seems to be becoming the focal point of opposition to the exclusive bus lane on Highway 101 during commuter hours. The town council is the only one in Marin to oppose the scheme, and now the East Corte Madera Hill-dwellers, a homeowners group, has joined the chorus.

It's the old goad-ox principle at work again. Slightly more than half the buses use the speedy lane from Greenbrae to Strawberry, but Corte Maderans don't take those buses. Instead, they are stuck with the ones that fight their way in and out of the snarled traffic, to and from the bus pads just off the freeway.

Corte Maderans probably would be more fond of the exclusive lane buses if they got to ride them.

Embezzling Suspect Surrenders

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A Chinatown bank manager suspected of embezzling a half million dollars fled home from Japan yesterday and surrendered to waiting FBI agents.

"I'm not running away from anything," said Quailand Tom, 40. He said he didn't even know he was wanted until he "read about it in the newspapers."

Tom was manager of the Chinatown branch of San Francisco Federal Savings and Loan Association when he was named in a federal complaint for embezzlement last Tuesday. Company sources said Tom left for a planned vacation to China two days early after he was confronted with evidence that some deposit accounts had been tampered with.

The FBI traced Tom to Taipei, Hong Kong and Tokyo before he telephoned his attorney, George T. Davis, and agreed to return to San Francisco and voluntarily surrender.

The FBI said he would be charged at his arraignment today with "having negotiated and converted to his own use approximately $436,000" from May to December.

Two Ousted Chairmen Rated Low By ADA

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The ratings released yesterday by the Americans for Democratic Action showed that the two committee chairmen ousted last week by congressional Democrats were among the lowest scorers on the list.

A high ADA score usually represents a liberal voting record while a low one is considered a conservative record. Yesterday's announcement showed the liberal leaning of the congressional Democrats since the committee chairmen in trouble had low scores.

W. R. (Bob) Poage, D-Tex.,

deposed as chairman of the Agriculture Committee, was one of 11 Democrats who scored zero on a scale of 100. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., ousted as chairman of the Armed Services Committee, rated a score of 4.

Chairmen Wright Patman, D-Tex., of the Banking and Currency Committee and Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, of House Administration, whose attempted ouster by the Steering Committee was overturned by the Democratic caucus, scored 26 and 30, respectively.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

Always Trust Kissinger To Solve Any Difficulty

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Disclosure that the United States is selling $756 million worth of jet fighters to Saudi Arabia was notable for its paradoxical timing.

The announcement came a week to the day after the controversial magazine interview in which Secretary of State Kissinger broached the possibility of using military force against Middle East oil producers.

Unless the wells have run dry overnight, Saudi Arabia is one of the leading Middle East oil producers. Which has prompted some observers to speculate that we may be selling them jets to defend themselves against us.

BUT, THANK GOD, I don't have a cynical bone in my beautiful body. I always assume the officials in charge of these matters know what they are doing.

In this instance my assumption is that the jets-for-Arabia transaction took shape as follows:

President Ford is having one of his meetings with his economic, military and diplomatic advisers to consider ways of dealing with the energy problem and recession.

"Gentlemen, you all know that Arab oil prices are eating us up. We must find a way to reduce our balance-of-payments deficit. Any suggestions?"

Ash of OMB raises his hand. "I'm just thinking off the top of my head, but why couldn't we even things up by selling some of our goods to the Arabs at inflated prices?"

"Good idea," Ford of the White House comments. "What do we have in abundance that is costly enough to offset the oil payment drain?"

"Automobiles," replies Simon of Treasury. "We've got unsold cars running off the gazette."

Kissinger of State shakes his head. "It won't wash. All of the Middle East petroleum potentates already own several fleets of Cadillacs."

"HOW ABOUT selling them some of our fighter planes?" suggests Schlesinger of Defense. "T-5 jets are now bringing about $2.7 million apiece. A few squadrons of those babies would go a long way toward fixing up our trade deficit."

Again Kissinger shakes his head. "That's fine in theory, but thanks to my peace efforts in the Middle East the Arabs no longer feel threatened by Israel. Consequently, there isn't much demand for military hardware."

"I'm still just thinking off the top of my head," Ash injects, "but what if something happened to make them feel threatened by someone else?"

Everyone turns to Kissinger, who scratches his head thoughtfully. "It's got possibilities," he muses. "I'll get back to you on it later. Right now I'm due for an interview I promised to Business Week."

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Former University of Michigan All-American halfback Billy Taylor was held in Summit County jail under $50,000 bond over the weekend after failing to enter a plea before a U.S. magistrate on a charge of bank robbery.

Taylor, of Flint, Mich., was arrested and Alex Rogers, of Detroit, was shot and wounded Friday in the attempted stickup of the Central Bank in nearby Barberton where Taylor was born.

Man Loses Out In Miss Contest

OLEAN, N.Y. (UPI) — Cattaraugus County's Miss Hope won't be a man this year, after all.

Male nurse Robert Hedrich, 27, was passed over by the judges during the pageant yesterday. Instead, they selected Deborah Rubland, 17, to reign as Miss Hope.

Hedrich also failed to take honors as first or second runner-up.

Entrants were judged on their poise, alertness, appearance, sincerity and a brief answer to a question.

"Why would a man want to enter such a contest in the first place?"

"People don't realize there are male nurses. I thought it would bring attention to the fact," said Hedrich. Besides, "if girls can do men's work, then men should be able to enter this type of pageant."

Vaudeville Performer Mrs. Belle Campbell

A private funeral will be held for Belle Campbell, former vaudeville headliner who lived for many years in Sausalito.

Mrs. Campbell died Saturday in a local hospital after she suffered a broken hip and wrist in an accident at San Rafael retirement home where she had lived the past two years. She was 97.

Mrs. Campbell was one of the two "Tobin Sisters" who starred as musicians at the turn of the century, performing throughout the United States and touring Australia. She later organized and led an all-woman orchestra that played in San Francisco restaurants.

She was born in San Francisco, and worked as a secretary there for many years before and after her stage career. She moved to Sausalito 23 years ago, where neighbors frequently joined her in Saturday night music sessions in which she strummed a strong banjo.

Mrs. Campbell was a life member of the American Federation of Musicians Local No. 353 of Long Beach.

She is survived by a daughter, Annabelle G. Hartz of San Rafael, a granddaughter and grandson and six great-grandchildren.

Inurnment will be in Cypress Lawn Columbarium, Colma.

LAURA B. HANSEN

Laura B. Hansen of Penn-grove, a Southern Sonoma homemaker, died in a Petaluma hospital Saturday after a short illness. She was 61.

She was a native of Plymouth, Iowa, and was reared and educated there. She and her husband, Fred, who survives, were married in 1938 and were Iowa farmers until 1954, when they moved to Southern Sonoma. The family home is at 8690 Petaluma Hill Road.

Mrs. Hansen is also survived by three sons, Howard and Harlan Hansen of Petaluma, and Harvey Hansen of Penn-grove; a daughter, Mary Ann Hansen of Petaluma; six brothers, Sylvester, Lee, and Roy Woolworth, all of Iowa, Lawrence Woolworth of Anaheim, Howard Woolworth of Phoenix, Ariz., and Glen Woolworth of Ladyfinger, Fla.; two sisters, Mabel Hinshaw of Iowa and Ruby Foote of Stanton, Orange County and three grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Sorensen Funeral Home in Petaluma, with burial in Cypress Hill Memorial Park.

HILDEGARD ALLEN

Funeral for Hildegard M. Allen of Petaluma will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Sorensen Funeral Home.

Mrs. Allen, 49, of 309 Pleasant Street, died in a local hospital Saturday after a brief illness.

She was a native of New York City who lived there until she came to Southern Sonoma in 1961.

For the past eight years she was a waitress for the Little Hill restaurant in Petaluma and before then worked as a waitress at the Green Mill Inn at Cotati.

Mrs. Allen is survived by her husband, Alfred W. (Curly) Allen of Petaluma; two daughters, Linda Heinsohn of Glen Ellen and Jeanne Heinsohn of Quincy; her father, Erich T. Gellert of Petaluma; a sister, Ruth Heinsohn of Phoenix, Ariz., and one grandson.

Inurnment will be at Cypress Hill Memorial Park, Petaluma.

Mrs. Sellers died Wednesday in a local hospital. She was 45. She was a native of California.

She is survived by two sons, James Rex Beach and Edward Lee Sellers; a daughter, Consuelo Kleinendorst; her parents, Edward and Mary Beach and two brothers, Thomas L. Amiral and Robert A. Amiral.

DELLA K. MARKLE

Mass of Christian Burial for Della K. Markle of Greenbrae, mother of Jean Heyward of San Anselmo, will be offered at 9 a.m. tomorrow at Star of the Sea Catholic Church in San Francisco.

Mrs. Markle, 83, died Saturday at a local convalescent hospital following a long illness.

Mrs. Markle was born and reared in Pennsylvania. About 25 years ago, she moved to San Francisco where she lived until becoming ill two years ago.

She was a former practical nurse and also had done house-keeping work for the rectory of St. Monica's Catholic Church in San Francisco.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Heyward of San Anselmo, and Mrs. Mildred Rosenfeld of San Francisco; a son, Mark Markle of Los Angeles; three sisters, Mrs. Leonard Kocher of Reading, Pa., Minnie Davies of Forty-Fort, Pa., and Jennie James of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., seven grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

The Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today at the McAvoy-O'Hara Mortuary in San Francisco. Burial will be at Holy Cross Cemetery in Colma.

CLEMENTINA AGUIAR

Mass of Christian Burial for Clementina Aguiar of Petaluma, a longtime resident of Marin and Southern Sonoma counties, will be at 10 a.m. tomorrow at St. Vincent De Paul Catholic Church in Petaluma.

Mrs. Aguiar died Saturday in a local hospital after a short illness. She was 70.

She was born in the Azores Islands and came to Marin in 1914. In 1919 she married her husband, Antone, in San Rafael. The couple lived in Ignacio until they moved to Petaluma in 1932.

For many years Mr. and Mrs. Aguiar worked on local dairy ranches. In 1947 they moved to 370 Bailey Avenue, Petaluma, where they operated their own ranch.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Aguiar is survived by two daughters, Caroline Bailey of Petaluma and Clementine Ramsey of Hanford, Kings County; two sons, Anthony and John Aguiar, both of Petaluma; a sister, Mary Cristina Azevedo of Bolinas, 12 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

The Rosary will be recited in her memory at 8 p.m. today at the Sorensen Funeral Home in Petaluma. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

Milroy, 51, died Friday at a local hospital following a long

Arab Gunmen Given French Jet In Swap For Hostages

PARIS (UPI) — Three Arab gunmen landed in Iraq aboard an Air France jetliner for refueling en route to a still unknown destination today after France let them go in exchange for 10 French hostages they held for 17 hours at besieged Orly airport.

Security forces surrounded the Paris airport after the three failed in an attempt to blow up an El Al jetliner carrying 220 passengers and crew and a shootout in which 18 persons were wounded.

An Air France spokesman said its Boeing 707 named Chateau de Compienne, manned by an all-volunteer crew, touched down in Baghdad at 4 p.m. after Beirut and other Arab airports in the Middle East refused it landing permission.

The Iraqi News Agency said Baghdad airport authorities refueled the plane and "it will continue its flight to an unknown destination on the demand of the armed men who insisted on continuing their journey."

It said the Iraqi government allowed the plane to land "after pleas from French authorities" and an Iraqi foreign ministry official and the French ambassador in Baghdad boarded the plane.

"They were assured that the crew was in good condition, and did not object to continuing the journey," the agency said.

Arab diplomatic sources said the Palestine Liberation Organization, which condemned the attack, might demand extradition of the three men to punish them. This was the case last fall when Tunisia handed over the hijackers of a British jetliner to the PLO.

"They are assassins," French Interior Minister Michel Poniatowski told a news conference after the plane left Paris at 9:55 a.m. "If lives of hostages had not been at stake, I would have handled them differently."

Wearing black hoods, the Arab gunmen boarded the jetliner after forcing blindfolded hostages to provide cover for them from the airfield restroom where they have been besieged by police.

Egyptian Ambassador to Paris Naguib Abdel Hamid Kadry, acting at France's request, negotiated the deal with the gunmen inside the restroom.

The siege began yesterday afternoon when French police thwarted an attempt by the gunmen to toss grenades from the Orly visitors' observation platform at an El Al Boeing 747 with 220 passengers and crew taxiing to take off for Tel Aviv.

The assailants then tossed grenades and fired pistols as they fought their way through panicky travelers and visitors to lock themselves up in the restroom with the 10 hostages.

Drug Link Extended To Prison Employees

In addition to the San Quentin correctional officer arrested Friday on suspicion of smuggling drugs into the prison, six other prison employees have been linked to drugs, prison officials said today.

The arrested man, Gary Vern Elston, 23, of San Rafael, and two others worked in the prison's mailroom, according to William D. Nyberg, prison information officer.

Nyberg said not all the seven were believed to be drug traffickers — some were suspected only of drug usage.

Elston has been the only one arrested, but one guard was fired in December for refusing to take a lie detector test, four are on "administrative time off" and a seventh has been suspended indefinitely.

All had been employees of San Quentin for two years or less, Nyberg said.

Prison officials expect no further arrests but the question of whether the five will be fired or not will be decided by Warden Kenneth D. Britt, Nyberg said.

Phillip Gurthie, a spokesman for the Department of Corrections in Sacramento, said he did not think any of the employees were a major source of drugs at the prison. Most narcotics come into the institution through visitors, he said.

illness.

A native of San Luis Obispo, Milroy lived most of his life in California and came to Marin in 1970. At the time of his death he lived at 342 Robin Drive.

He had been with Chevron for 35 years and was a port superintendent in Richmond for the firm.

While living in Southern California, he belonged to the Bilge Club and the Propeller Club, organizations for shipping industry employees.

Survivors include his wife, Valerie A. Milroy of Corte Madera; a daughter, Gail A. Milroy of Corte Madera; a son, Robert B. Milroy of Rohnert Park, and a brother, Gene Houston of Portland, Ore.

The family prefers memorial contributions to the American Cancer Society.

JEWELL TAYLOR

Memorial service for Jewell M. (Judy) Taylor of Mill Valley, active in community organizations and church work, will be at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday at the Episcopal Church of Our Saviour in Mill Valley.

Mrs. Taylor died Saturday at a local hospital after a long illness. She was 66.

She was a former vestrywoman and the first woman lector at the Church of Our Saviour as well as a director of the parish's Episcopal church women.

FRANCES TIEMAN

Mass of Christian Burial for Ann Frances Tieman of Mill Valley will be at 10 a.m. tomorrow at Mount Carmel Catholic Church in Mill Valley.

Mrs. Tieman died Saturday at a local convalescent hospital after a long illness. She was 78.

A native of Coos Bay, Ore., Mrs. Tieman had lived in Marin 49 years.

Surviving are her husband, Ralph H. Tieman; a daughter, Joan B. Tieman of San Francisco; a brother, Edward Holland of Eureka, and four sisters, Mary Dux of Mill Valley, Kathleen Holland of Eastside, Ore., Nel Feichtinger of North Bend, Ore., and Florence Hoskings of Lebanon, Ore.

Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today at Russell and Gooch Mortuary in Mill Valley. Burial will be at Mount Olivet Cemetery in San Rafael.

HUBERT GENTIS

Funeral was held today in Petaluma for Hubert Edward Gentis, of Santa Rosa, father of William Gentis of Rohnert Park.

Gentis, 76, died Friday at a Santa Rosa convalescent hospital after a long illness.

A native of Washington, he came to San Francisco at age 15. He moved to Santa Rosa seven months ago.

He worked in ice cream production most of his life and before retiring was superintendent of the ice cream department for Spreckels-Russell Corp.

Survivors also include his wife, Mabel Gentis of San Francisco; a daughter, Betty Maschiot of Colma; three step-brothers, Peter Steele of Richmond, Richard Steele of Eureka, Stuart Steele of Rio Dell, Humboldt County; a step-sister, Muriel Smith of Dallas, Ore., and 10 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

THE SUBURBAN SCENE

Stuart Riddells Home From The Sea

By MOLLY MARIN

Home from the sea, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Riddell of Malta and their children, Cameron, 12, and Romayne, 10, are visiting Mrs. Riddell's mother, Nancy Shepard of Greenbrae.

The Riddells left their charter yacht, a 43-foot Hilliard Cutter, in Malta and came home for Christmas.

The Riddells are Mill Valley residents from 1964 to 1970 and raced a Coronado 25 out of the Sausalito Cruising Club. They lived here until their children were of a seaworthy age; in 1970 they bought their boat and began their adventures.

They cruised in Denmark, Sweden and the Dutch canals and the following spring explored the French canals from Le Havre to Marseilles and the French and Italian Rivers.

The Riddells arrived in Greece at the end of September, 1971, where they operated their charter boat until last year when, because of the war in Cyprus, charter boats left for Malta.

They will return to Malta on Feb. 2 and return to Greece this summer to resume chartering.

They enjoy the life and "have no plans to return home except for visits," said Emily Riddell. They plan to buy a 70-foot charter yacht.

The Riddells' children have gone to school in England and Greece and taken a correspondence course on Malta. They stay ashore with friends when their parents charter their boat, according to Mrs. Riddell.

Among exhibitors at the Golden Needle Exhibition scheduled Jan. 30 through Feb. 2 at the Hotel Leanington in Oakland are two Marin women needleworkers.

Charlotte Patera of San Anselmo, author of The Applique Book issued by Better Homes and Gardens, will enter several applique pieces including a vest, dress, quilt and wall rug. Irene Stymmel of San Rafael will display handiwork in crewel and creative stitchery, with framed pictures of each.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman E. Barnett of Greenbrae will be hosts for a cocktail celebration Jan. 30 to celebrate the 64th wedding anniversary of Barnett's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Barnett of San Francisco. The senior Barnetts were married in 1911 in San Diego.

Present at the party will be the senior Barnetts' daughter Helene Lansing and her husband Paul of San Francisco, and their four granddaughters, Dianne Barnett and Lynne Smith of San Rafael, Joan Thompson of Fairfax and Marlene Stratton of Mountain View. A great-granddaughter, Lynn Guarino of Mountain View, will also be present.

The party is to adjourn from cocktails to dinner at the Velvet Turtle restaurant in San Rafael.

AFTER A wedding trip to Kauai, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Paul Hewett will live in San Rafael. The former Connie Jean Coffin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tris Mitchell Coffin of Mill Valley. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hewett of Mill Valley.

The Dec. 29 wedding took place at the Ralston White Memorial Retreat in Mill Valley. The newlyweds are both graduates of Tamalpais High School. The bride continued her studies at the University of the Pacific in Stockton, California State University and Dominican College and is now doing graduate work in education at the San Rafael campus. Richard was graduated from the University of California at Davis and is in the master's program in environmental biology at California State University, San Francisco.

THE PINCH IN MARIN

Idle Carpenter Keeps Busy At Jobs Around The House

(EDITOR'S NOTE — The headlines everywhere tell of rising prices and cutbacks in jobs. President Ford last week said, "The State of the Union is not good." How are Marin people coping with the economic situation? In interviews with individual Marin and southern Sonoma residents, Marin Living sought some answers. Here is the first of eight articles.)

By BETH ASHLEY

Carpenter Richard Iverson, 27, of San Rafael, who was laid off work two days before Thanksgiving and has been jobless ever since, says, "so far we're getting along fine."

His wife "loves to have me around the house," he has plenty of projects to keep him busy, and "I really like having time to spend with my boy," Richard Jr., age 5.

He's confident President Ford will find a way to turn the economy around. "With all these people unemployed, he knows he's got to do something."

IVERSON'S OPTIMISM is not necessarily shared by his fellow carpenters, about 500 of whom in Local 35 are out of work at this time (400 journeymen, 100 apprentices, according to assistant business representative Clarence Murfin). That's out of a total work force of 1,350.

But meanwhile, Iverson is drawing $90 a week unemployment, has a savings account to draw on, and looks forward Feb. 1 to receiving $1,200 "vacation pay" accumulated through his union. "We're not hurting," he said.

If any changes have been made in his lifestyle, they are in terms of deferred buying. "We thought we'd be out seriously shopping for a house about now," he said. At present, they are renting a home at 102 Greenfield Avenue, with the intention of buying something in the $30,000 to $40,000 bracket. "But not now," he said. "Payments for a house would come to around $300 a month, and you can't do that on unemployment."

"THERE ARE THINGS we'd like to buy," he said. "but I'm not unhappy about having to wait." Meanwhile, they are cutting back, but not drastically. "We don't eat much steak, but I don't really miss it. I hunt and fish a lot, so we have plenty of ducks and fish in the freezer."

The rented house is owned by his father-in-law, so he's happy to keep busing painting the kitchen, building cabinetry, making other improvements. "My wife wants me to build her a china cabinet. I don't expect to run out of projects right away."

Their social life is "pretty much just around home," so there hasn't been any significant cutback there.

Being jobless represents a considerable cut in income, however. Journeymen carpenters make $10 an hour for a 36-hour week; as an apprentice making 90 per cent of that wage, he could expect to make $324 a week, with a take-home of about $230. That's $140 more than he takes in on unemployment.

THE SAVING GRACE, he said, is his savings account. "I've been putting money aside for a rainy day, and I figure this is a rainy day," he said. But many of his jobless fellows in the union are not so lucky; "They're pretty discouraged. Some of them are scared."

If things don't pick up for Iverson, he expects to go back to work as a laborer. He worked at McNear's brickyard in San Rafael for seven years before becoming an apprentice carpenter. "Cathie doesn't want me to go back, but I will if I have to."

"It seems funny — I spent seven years at the brickyard trying to figure out what I wanted to do, and I've been working as an apprentice for four years — I'm almost a journeyman — and now, just like that, the bottom's dropped out of the building business."

HE ATTRIBUTES the slowdown to "first the moratorium (Marin Municipal Water District ruled against further water hookups for new buildings in 1973) and then the lack of financing."

Marin Living

Monday, January 20, 1975

Independent-Journal, 11

He said the contractor for whom he had been working bid last summer to build homes for a development in Fairfax. "Another builder outbid him and got the job, but that guy's gone bust since. Now my boss has got the job, but he can't get any financing. Until he does, I guess I'm going to be home."

Meanwhile, he checks in every Monday morning at Carpenters Hall, to check for possible work and to have his card stamped for unemployment.

He said some of the other carpenters are "making it" because their wives have jobs, but he strongly believes that his wife should stay home and care for their son.

With that in mind, he realizes, if the crunch comes — "when the unemployment runs out" next November — he will have to find work.

HE THINKS the building industry will revive first in the Sonoma County area, and he has considered paying "foreign" dues to the Sonoma carpenters local so he could work in that area. But there isn't enough work to go around there yet either.

So for now, with Richard Iverson and others in the building trades, there is nothing to do but wait. "We'll just wait and see," he said.

(Tomorrow: A couple in their thirties look at their shrinking income.)

ON THE AGENDA

Marin Community Roundtable Slates Civic Center Meeting

Marin Community Roundtable will meet at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the planning Chambers of the Marin County Civic Center in San Rafael.

The Roundtable consists of representatives of Marin's women's organizations and is open to any such representative or to interested individuals.

The organization is an offshoot of the Ad Hoc Committee which was instrumental in organizing the Marin Status of Women Commission. The group will exchange information and ideas for future programs and contribute information for a master calendar of women's group events in the county.

Installation of officers is scheduled by members of the High Twelves of Marin, meeting at 12:45 p.m. Wednesday at Lin Fa Gardens in Terra Linda.

Thelma Lind will be installed as president.

Marian Brannon, a handwriting analyst, will be the guest speaker at a meeting scheduled at 1:30 p.m. Thursday by members of the St. Raphael's Mothers Guild.

The meeting will be held at St. Raphael's Social Hall.

THE BELVEDERE-Tiburon Guild of the Boyd Museum will meet at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at the home of Mrs. Cena Bessolo of Tiburon. A luncheon to honor eight new members will follow the meeting.

The Big Sisters of Marin will meet for a potluck dinner at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday (Jan. 22) at the home of Penny Thompson in Mill Valley.

A "Share" workshop, dealing with establishing good relationships between children and adults, will be conducted by Nancy Farr, who is also a member of the Big Sisters chapter.

The 28th birthday of Rosarium Institute No. 175, Young Ladies Institute, will be celebrated with a dinner at the Blue Rock Inn in Larkspur Wednesday at 7 p.m. Claire Skidmore is chairman of the event.

New officers will be installed following the dinner.

$1,000 Grant Received By Big Sisters

The Big Sisters of Marin have received a $1,000 grant from the Marin Charitable Foundation.

The purpose for which the allotment was made was "to insure the continuing high standards of interviewing of Big Sisters before they are matched with compatible little sisters," according to Gail Gordon, Big Sisters coordinator.

The program, which involves an individual relationship of girls from 6 to 16 years old with a mature older friend, is most successful when compatible matches can be made. Under ideal circumstances a lasting companionship for the enrichment and guidance of the younger girl is achieved.

The Big Sisters of Marin was founded two years ago and is a chapter of the Big Sisters of the Bay Area.

By HELEN BOTTEL

Harried Housewife Needs Cure For Constantly Nagging Hubby

DEAR HELEN:

If you have a solution for the nagging husband, please tell me. My husband drives me up the walls with his bird-dogging. I keep his house clean, cook him three meals a day, am always home, yet he never has a compliment or a kind word. He thinks I should get on my knees and thank him for what he provides. I do appreciate, but why must he pick faults that other men wouldn't even notice?

He doesn't like people, animals, children, going out, having parties, hobbies, music, art—he's completely anti-social except for his parents' family. His whole aim in life is making money and expecting absolute perfection. I could get up a five-course meal, have the house beautiful, the children perfect (they're mine, not his, which I never hear the last of), and if the celery has one string in it, that's what he harps about.

Others wonder how I manage so well. Yet he resents it every time I take a moment to play the piano or do anything that doesn't revolve around him.

I try to overlook his nagging, but I go into a tailspin and crash about once a month.

On the plus side, he's a good provider, doesn't drink or step out on me. Outside of divorce, is there a way to change things? — N.S.

DEAR N.S.:

Dictators get that way because no one calls their bluff. Perhaps you're afraid to speak out because you're hooked on security. But face it: things won't get better until your husband knows how bad you feel they are. Even then, improvement is chancy, but at least you'll have faced a decision: "Is security worth the price?" — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My wife and I were having troubles, so I thought I might get a better look at our lives by talking to her best friend. Instead, we fell in love. But we can't do anything about it because her husband and my wife trust us, and it would ruin friendships that have lasted for over 20 years.

Recently my wife has changed. She's much more affectionate and understanding. Has stopped putting me down. Shows me a lot of consideration. I, in turn, am beginning to see I have a good thing going at home.

Which puts me in the strange position of being in love with two women. Is this possible? And is it safe to maintain a friendship-only basis with someone you're sexually attracted to? ... When she feels the same, but is fighting it? — TOO MANY LOVES

DEAR TML:

Yes, it's possible to love more than one person, but usually one love outweighs the other. You're smart to load the scales on the practical side. Can this foursome be maintained? I think so. You two "friends" are the decision-makers, and it appears you've both decided against an affair. Sexual attraction doesn't always lead to bed, you know. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Bully for the woman who thinks it's time for male liberation. I enjoy helping my wife with the housework and caring for our little girl. I get funny looks and snide remarks, sometimes, when a chauvinist type sees me changing diapers, but I think that any man who really loves his wife will want to share family things with her. Incidentally, I read your column in the "Women's Section" every day and so do a lot of other men. Don't know why it's placed there, but then I've never seen a need for ostracizing females to a "woman's page" either. — MASCULINE BUT GENTLE

Got a problem? An adult subject for discussion? You can talk it over in her column if you write to Helen Bottel, c/o the Independent Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

Love is...

...not only calling the grandparents but also writing to them.

GRASS ROOTS GROUPS

All Consumers Benefit From The Efforts Of Vigilant Few

By JOSEPHINE RIPLEY
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Most consumers don't know how much they are indebted to other consumers who work in their behalf — and save them money.

These unpaid workers price-check the supermarkets, warn of consumer deceptions they find, and mobilize in support of consumer protection legislation.

They are members of grass-roots consumer organizations, of which there are some 70 or more across the United States. These groups operate independently, as a rule, each responding to the needs of its own locality or state.

But the point is, they operate "where it's at." The Virginia Citizens' Consumer Council, Inc. (VCCC), for instance, has a price patrol in the supermarkets. When members discovered ground meat labeled "lean" that appeared to have a generous fat content, they registered a protest.

THIS EVENTUALLY resulted in a relabeling that more accurately described the consistency of the product. A small thing, perhaps, but it proved the effectiveness of an organized consumer appeal.

The VCCC also was among the first to report that although the rise in the price of soft drinks was attributed by producers to the higher price of sugar, sugar-free sodas went up as much as the others.

On the other side of the country, another pioneer group, called the Oregon Consumer League, has made headway in the field of legislation.

"When we first started," reports Jan Rathe, executive secretary, "Oregon did not even have any anti-fraud laws." Since then Oregon has passed one consumer bill after another. When the Legislature approved an omnibus consumer bill two years ago, it was hailed as "the year of the consumer" in that state.

A CONSUMER LOBBYIST cannot, of course, force the passage of legislation. But he or she can make certain that legislators understand the bill because, as Mrs. Rathe points out, "they will not vote for it until they do. So our job is one of education."

Her job, she says, also calls for contact with business. "Even though our views may conflict, the only way to get reform is to work with business, as I see it," Mrs. Rathe says. "We must work together to try to solve our problems."

Although the grass-roots consumer groups are usually composed of volunteers, they are not necessarily amateurs. There are many professionals in their ranks — lawyers, economists, accountants, artists and other specialists who contribute their services to the cause.

THE VIRGINIA COUNCIL, for one, had politically knowledgeable people, among its founders, recalls Lynn Jordan, a past president.

There is a definite contrast between some of the older comparatively conservative groups and some of the more aggressive and impatient newcomers to the scene, such as the three-year-old San Francisco Consumer Action (SFCA).

In an expose, called "Break the Banks! A Shopper's Guide to Banking Services," the SFCA took off after the city's banks. It made headlines, but ended in the loss of foundation grants on which the organization depended for support.

But it is doubtful, according to Kay Patchner, executive director, if she and her associates would have pulled their punches even had they been aware that high bank officials were on the boards of these foundations.

THE GROUP promptly conducted a door-to-door drive for funds and set off on new exposures — the latest an attack on the California Department of Consumer Affairs for "failing to carry out its mandate of consumer protection."

The SFCA is one of the comparatively few consumer groups with some paid workers.

Cities Lose Airport Damage Suit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today refused to interfere with a California court decision holding cities liable for the reduced value of residential property around municipal airports and forcing them to pay homeowners damages.

The justices declined to hear an appeal brought by Los Angeles of a state court award of $650,000 to 520 property owners around Los Angeles International Airport.

Los Angeles had argued that the federal government had pre-empted the power of local municipalities to regulate air travel at city-owned airports. It said the Federal Aviation Administration controls flight patterns noise abatement procedures and landings.

The city also argued that holding cities financially liable for the reduced value of airport area property indirectly interfered with interstate commerce. Regulation of interstate commerce is left to the federal government under the Constitution.

The California Court of Appeal dismissed these arguments in upholding the damage verdicts. Much of the opinion relied on earlier California cases and a clause in the state Constitution requiring government to compensate citizens for damage to their property.

But the court also pointed to a 1962 Supreme Court decision which said that landing flight paths are similar to highways, and cities must obtain easements for right-of-way over property if air traffic is likely to interfere with enjoyment of the land.

The court concluded that California law requires cities to pay for reduced market value of real estate which results from aircraft noise around municipal airports.

The citizens who brought the damage suit told the court in their brief opposing a hearing that they were not seeking money for loss of sleep or physical injuries resulting from the noise levels. They only wanted to make up the reduced real estate values, which averaged about $1,000.

Other states have referred to the 1962 Supreme Court opinion with varying results, often grounded in state laws or state court decisions.

Supreme Court To Decide If Topless Ban Is Legal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today agreed to decide whether broadly written local ordinances banning all forms of topless dancing — for art as well as profit — are constitutional.

The justices will schedule oral arguments and hand down a written decision, probably by June, which could force localities to strictly word antitopless laws to avoid infringing free speech rights.

The 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals struck down a broad antitopless law in North Hempstead, N.Y., on grounds it would forbid productions of the rock musical "Hair" and touring African dance performances which feature bare-breasted native dancers.

The circuit court did not say it was unconstitutional to ban topless dancing in bars where there is a minimum element of self-expression, but concluded that the North Hempstead ban against topless or bottomless dancing in "a cabaret, bar, lounge, dance hall or discotheque or any other public place" went too far.

The justices also decided to hear arguments in two cases where lower courts broadly defined the rights of criminal defendants to avoid selfincrimination.

The Michigan Supreme Court ordered a new trial for a man convicted of murder and robbery on grounds police should have stopped questioning him as soon as the defendant said he wanted to remain silent. Police continued to question the accused until he confessed.

In the second case, the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals reversed the conviction of a California man accused of armed robbery on grounds a key defense witness should have been allowed to testify without providing government prosecutors with copies of his statements to defense lawyers.

In the only other appeal accepted for review, the court will determine if public housing projects which issue nonprofit stock certificates to residents can be regulated by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Princess Grace Praises Irish

WATERLOO, N.J. (UPI) — Princess Grace of Monaco paid tribute over the weekend to the Irish-Americans who fought in the American War of Independence.

In her capacity as international chairwoman of the Irish-American Cultural Institute, Princess Grace — once known to millions of movie goers as Grace Kelly — attended ceremonies at a Methodist church Saturday with New Jersey Gov. Brendan T. Byrne and Rep. Peter Rodino, D-N.J.

"So many of the men in the armies were Irish, one-third," she added.

Princess Grace, wearing a beige smock top, matching skirt and burgundy-colored turban, arrived in a limousine from New York City but took a horse-drawn stage coach for a short ride into the 250-year-old village.

Driver Killed In BART Rail Collision

OAKLAND (UPI) — A high-speed 10-car train operated by the Bay Area Rapid Transit District collided with a maintenance truck on the system right-of-way last night, killing one man and injuring two others.

Michael Healy, a public information officer for the system, blamed an incorrect radio message for the accident which completely ruined one of the system's new cars and caused damages of more than $100,000.

The train, being tested before being dispatched to Pittsburg for the morning commuter rush, had been held at the Fruitvale station, pending receipt of a radio message from the system-owned truck that the track was clear.

A system spokesman said the train was not cleared to move northward on the southbound tracks, as is the custom during night hours, until the maintenance truck messaged that the tracks were clear.

Robert K. Harrington, 27, of Oakland, the train's operator, unexpectedly saw the huge truck looming ahead on the tracks near 14th Avenue as he headed for the Merritt Street Station. He hit the emergency brake and ran toward the back of the train.

His running saved his life. Arthur L. Briggs, 40, of Richmond, the truck driver was struck and pronounced dead on arrival at Highland Emergency Hospital.

Billy Moore, 24, of Pittsburg, who was on the truck, jumped and escaped with cuts and bruises. He was treated and released at the hospital.

Jim Coppedge, 25, of Oakland, stayed with the truck, but apparently escaped serious injury. He was held at the hospital for observation, however.

The maintenance truck can operate both on tracks and on a roadway.

The scene of accident was above ground, but near a spot where the tracks dip underground. It was not at a crossing.

It was the third death in the short history of the new $1 billion rapid transit system which links Alameda, Contra Costa and San Francisco counties. Previously a train had hit a maintenance man who was walking on tracks and there was a suicide by a person who jumped in front of a train.

In addition, one train ran through a station and derailed. There was no fatality that time.

YMCA Plans Ski Weekends

The Marin Young Men's Christian Association is sponsoring four ski weekends.

The first trip will be this Saturday and Sunday. Skiers will stay at the YMCA in Reno and ski at Squaw Valley, Sugarbowl, Alpine Meadows or Heavenly Valley.

Other trips will be: Feb. 8 and 9; Feb. 15-17, and March 8-9.

Further information can be obtained from the Marin YMCA.

CHUCK MANGIONE DUE IN MARIN

Composer-conductor Chuck Mangione will bring his jazz quartet to Marin Civic Center at 8 p.m. Feb. 5 for a concert sponsored by the San Rafael High School Band, Orchestra and Choir Association and the San Rafael Jazz Ensemble. Mangione, who plays flugelhorn and keyboards, will be joined by Joe LaBarbera on drums, Gray Niewood on horns and Chip Jackson on bass. Tickets are available from the high school music department.

MUSIC REVIEW

Horns Outstanding In Informal Concert

By JEFF GILLMAN

A charming selection of somewhat neglected but often excellent horn and piano music was performed by members of the San Francisco and Oakland symphonies last night at Dominican College.

One of a series of Sunday evening performances presented by the Music Associates, the informal concert in Angelico Hall included horn works by Telemann, Hindemith, Mozart and the contemporary Soviet composer Alexander Goedicke.

Chris Bogios, a member of the San Francisco Symphony's trumpet section, was introduced to Goedicke's "Concert Etude" during the symphony's 1973 tour of the Soviet Union. Characteristic of music composed under the rigid aesthetic restrictions of the Soviet government, it is a product of 19th Century romanticism and ignores the whole development of Western orchestral music in this century.

Its interest lies in its faithful reflection of the rich tradition of Russian music. As such, Goedicke's work along with that of other Soviet "moderns," is finding its way into the repertoires of Western orchestras and performers.

Last night's best selection was the "Trio for Horn, Trumpet and Trombone" by Francis Poulenc. The allegro moderato opens much like the chamber music of Haydn or Mozart and gave the musicians the opportunity to build a solid ensemble sound.

It is good song and dance music, intercut with wit and gaiety. However it also contains a slightly weird minor key theme that gives it a touch of surrealism.

Rafferty Says New Job Better

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Max Rafferty, former California superintendent of public instruction, says his present job in an Alabama university is less political, more relaxed, and better paying.

Rafferty, defeated in 1970 by Wilson Riles, is dean of Troy University's school of education.

In an interview with the Sacramento Bee yesterday, Rafferty said of his California job:

"There are about 25 commissions and boards in the state that the superintendent is appointed to. If you go to the meetings, you are hardly ever in your office and you are accused of neglecting your job. If you don't go, you are accused of neglecting the boards. You're damned if you do and damned if you don't."

Salgo Leads Symphony In Pleasing Performance

By BLAKE A. SAMSON
Conductor Sandor Salgo wielded his baton with delicacy and gentleness last night at the Marin Symphony's second concert of the season. The moderation and care was there, but that chemistry that stirs some 40 musicians into a unified, emotional force was not.

It was a mild, thoroughly enjoyable evening, but not a blockbuster. The concert at the Marin Veterans Auditorium opened with Aaron Copland's suite, "Appalachian Spring." It was brightly and cleanly delivered, with rhythmic fun, fluidity and a full flossom of 19th century, rural America.

Its style and tone are pastoral. The material is folkloric, blythe and full of dance. There was a particular delight in the percussion accents and fine flute and clarinet accompaniment (Lucia Schultz, Lance Carnes, Jean Chandler, Tom Rose and Lawrence Posner).

The mixing of the woodwinds leading into the country dance and the building of the transitional bucolic motifs also were notably well done.

Salgo finely molded mood to mood and gave both the pas de deux and the Shaker tune, "The Gift to Be Simple," a wide and tender touch. It was a plain but pleasant way to start.

Philip Fath of Mill Valley, principal clarinetist with the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra and the San Francisco Opera, then joined the orchestra in Mozart's "Clarinet Concerto," the composer's final manuscript.

Fath danced his clarinet until it was a delight to the senses, pulling in sound, throwing it off lightly and gaily running up the scale.

The piece opened rather flatly, until the notation became increasingly multiple. There the strings seemed to enjoy themselves, scurrying about. The clarinet entrance was played most softly. Rarely is a clarinet so muted. It made the lower notes seem unusually resonant.

Fath gave quite a distinct turn from the usually brighter Mozart, giving instead an atmospheric touch to the work. This was a Mozart that lived in San Francisco, foggy and coloristic.

Full of marvelous curves and light bounces, the Mozart took pleasure in the clarinet's ability to rapidly descend the scale in open tones and its equal ability to be florid and flowing.

The soloist then tried to give the adagio a beautifully light, airy quality, but the instrument's reed would not cooperate at first. Then it did and it was truly tender.

Playing at its best in the Rondo, the orchestra showed that this is Mozart at his most sage. There is no frivolity that does not rise from a serious base. The strings took hold and delivered a solid solemnity against which the clarinet could show its darker side as well.

The concert closed with Debussy's "La Mer." Frequently played, it is much less frequently understood. Most merely see it as a picturesque seascape, a morceaux de genre. To do so is to miss its evocative, perfumed foreshadowing of modern music.

It has become known as a masterpiece of the impressionist school, yet Debussy riled at the term. It would be better to focus in on the word "complexion," for in its enriched harmonies, suggestive overtones and augmented chordal structure is much subtle and dissonant coloration.

Fluctuating between the pleasant and the strangely jarring, between the ominous and the beautiful, it is music made predominantly by blending tones and setting long harmonic sequences.

Salgo moved closer to this than most, particularly in providing gentle clarinet and English horn ripples (the glint of Debussy's strange shimmer), but a stronger rhythmic spine was needed.

Debussy originally called the "Dialogue of the Wind and the Sea": "The Wind makes the Sea Dance." This indicates the kind of force — one arm of nature pushing against another — that Debussy hoped to achieve.

Had the prevailing gentleness with which Salgo conducted the rest of the concert turned to more forthright expression here, this might have capped the evening splendidly. As it was, it made a nicely-nuanced close to a mild, but pleasing, concert.

Cash Box Taken From Hospital

A petty cash box containing $200 was stolen from a locked desk in Ross Hospital, Ross police reported today.

The theft apparently occurred late last Tuesday or early Wednesday, according to the report. The desk, used by Saga Food Service of Menlo Park in the hospital's dietary section, was pried open.

THE INSTANT IT HAPPENED

'A Little Bit Teched'

(This is one in a series of articles and photographs prepared by Associated Press on "The Instant It Happened," illustrated stories of impact culled from the past — some of them from another generation, others of more recent times.)

Icarus tried, but his wings fell off. Da Vinci tried, but his machines wouldn't stay in the air.

In 1871, Alphonse Penaud, a Frenchman, tried, on a tiny scale. He made toy helicopters out of paper, cork, bamboo and rubber bands. And they flew. And some were brought to the United States.

An Iowa churchman bought one for his sons, Orville and Wilbur Wright, aged 7 and 11. In the house, outside in the yard, the boys flew the helicopter and tested it and tried to discover what made it soar, until they had it in pieces. They built helicopters of their own and found the bigger they made them the less they flew.

Through the years, they turned to other things.

Yet they never forgot the helicopter.

In 1900, the two brothers went to the beach at Kitty Hawk, N.C., because of its prevailing wind. Over three summers, they flew gliders, with wing-spans of 16 feet, 22 feet and 32 feet, by hauling them to a huge sand dune called Kill Devil Hill and pushing them over the side. The controlled gliders by moving vertical and horizontal vanes on their noses and tails — and by twisting their wingtips with wires.

Thursday, December 17, 1903. The Wright brothers haul their largest glider, more than 40 feet from wingtip to wingtip, out of its shed on the sand at Kitty Hawk. They rest its wingtips on two small benches. They place its skids on a wooden rail. Fastened to the bottom wing of the glider is a four-cylinder gasoline engine the Wright brothers built at their bicycle shop in Dayton. It drives two propellers.

Having used his turn in an unsuccessful attempt three days before, Wilbur stays on the ground, standing near the right wing. Orville climbs aboard and settles his 145 pounds, stomach down, on the bottom wing beside the engine. He releases a wire. The "flyer," as the Wright brothers call it, begins to move. Wilbur runs alongside, balancing it as it rolls forward on its trolley and its wingtips slide off their benches. As it reaches the end of the rail, it starts to climb . . . two feet up . . . four . . . eight . . . 10 feet . . . until Orville lands it back on the sand. Total distance flown: 100 feet. Total elapsed time: 12 second.

John T. Daniels, a lifeguard at the Kill Devil Hill Life Saving Station a quarter mile away, had seen a signal the Wrights raised to beckon anyone within five miles, to come and watch. Daniels, two other lifeguards, a man from the nearby town of Manteo and a young boy from Nag's Head joined the two brothers at their camp.

As the Wrights directed, Daniels put his head under a black cloth behind a camera they had placed on a tripod and aimed toward the end of the wooden rail. Like many, John Daniels had a private hunch the Wrights were "a little bit teched." Now, as man flew for the first time in a machine that lifted itself by its own power and sailed forward without any reduction of speed, Daniels squeezed a bulb that tripped the shutter.

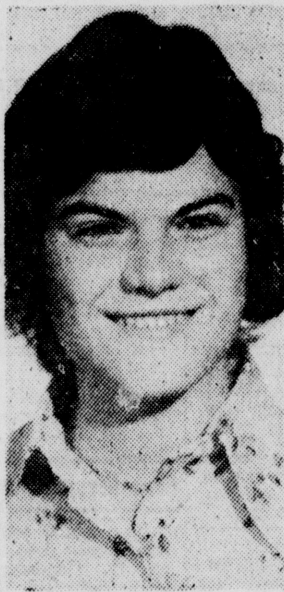

Later he told his children he had been "astonished" at what he had photographed.

Program Sunday Is Season's First For Youth Orchestra

The Marin Youth Orchestra will open its 21st concert season Sunday with a program ranging from Copland's "Lincoln Portrait" to a Liszt piano concerto.

The season debut will be at 2:30 p.m. in the Marin Veterans Memorial Building. Hugo Rinaldi will conduct the orchestra, which is sponsored by the Marin Symphony Association.

Three young soloists, all Mill Valley residents, will be spotlighted in the program. Pianist Bridget Conrad will perform in Liszt's "Piano Concerto in E Major No. 1." Arthur Larsen and Sara Allen will play in Cimarosa's "Concerto for Two Flutes and Orchestra."

Bill Hollenbeck of Radio KKKH will be narrator in the Copland tribute to Lincoln.

The program also will include Shostakovich's "Symphony No. 1."

Blood Mobile To Visit Marin

The mobile unit of the Irwin Memorial Blood Bank will be in Mill Valley and Woodacre and on the Dominican College campus during February.

On Feb. 1, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., the bloodmobile will be at Faneaux Hall at the college.

The mobile unit will be at Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church in Mill Valley on Feb. 2 from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and at the Swim and Tennis Club in Woodacre Feb. 9 from 9 a.m. to noon.

Ada Garfinkel's Works On Display

Large print collages and three-dimensional drawings by Ada Garfinkel, Kentfield artist and Independent-Journal art critic, will be shown in the San Marco Gallery at Dominican College from Jan. 23 through Feb. 15. Viewing hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

A preview reception will be held on Thursday, from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m., at the gallery.

Elderly Woman Burned In Fire

An elderly Petaluma woman was injured last night by a fire which began in her bed, apparently caused by a faulty electric blanket.

Minnie Purdy, 80, of 32 Fair Street, was pulled from her burning bedroom shortly after 10 a.m. She was rescued by a passerby, Richard Preston, who saw the flames and entered the house, according to firemen.

The blaze destroyed the bed and burned a nearby wall before it was doused by Petaluma firemen.

Mrs. Purdy was taken to Hillcrest Hospital, where she was reported in good condition today with burns on the upper part of her body.

Woman, Boy, 5 Hurt In Crash

A Sausalito woman and a 5-year-old boy were injured Saturday in a head-on auto crash on Shoreline Highway in Tamalpais Valley.

Leslie Davison, 27, of 106A Second Street, suffered broken ribs and was reported in serious condition today at Marin General Hospital.

Five-year-old Jason Potts of 25 Harrison Street, Sausalito, was reported in satisfactory condition at the hospital with cuts on his face and head.

The woman and child were among six passengers in a small foreign car driven by Mrs. Davison's husband, William, 33, which collided with an auto driver by Paul Chun, 49, of 43 Loring Avenue, Mill Valley.

The crash occurred just south of Shasta Way at 4:40 p.m., according to the California Highway Patrol.

Four other passengers in the Davison car, including the Davison's two children, Tristan, 5, and Karen, 2, were treated for minor injuries at Marin General.

Patrolmen said Chun, driving home from work, apparently fell asleep at the wheel. Neither Chun nor his son, a passenger in the car, was injured.

Former Grid Star Still Unconscious

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — One month ago yesterday, College of Marin football star Jackie Robinson was shot in the head here by masked gunmen; he's been unconscious ever since.

Officials at Community Hospital, where emergency surgery was performed on the 19-year-old all conference wide receiver shortly after the shooting, reported today he is still in a coma and his condition is listed as critical.

On Dec. 19, according to the Sonoma County Sheriff's Office, Robinson was visiting a friend in Santa Rosa when two men wearing nylon stockings over their heads forced the door open at about 8 p.m. One of the masked men fired a bullet into the side of Robinson's head, then the pair fled.

Sheriff's investigators said they know of no motive for the shooting.

Soon afterward two Santa Rosans, Jerry Richard Lohner, 21, and David Douglas Webb, 20, were arrested on suspicion of attempted murder, burglary and assault.

The two, who pleaded innocent to the charges in Sonoma Superior Court, are scheduled for a hearing before Judge Lincoln F. Mahan at 8:45 a.m. Wednesday. Webb, who was confined in Sonoma County Jail on $5,000 bail, was to appear in court today to ask a reduction of his bond. Lohner is free on bail.

The 5-foot, 10-inch, 180-pound Robinson, a former star player at Cardinal Newman High School in Santa Rosa, lived with relatives in Marin City while attending school in Kentfield, according to athletic officials at the College of Marin.

Sports, Arts To Benefit By Sonoma State Funds

Sonoma State College has received $74,140 through a legislature bill to aid instructionally-related activities, and president Marjorie Wagner has allocated a large share of the money for intercollegiate athletics and the arts.

Officials at the Rohnert Park campus had expected about $2,000 less as their share of some $2.6 million allocated to the 19 state colleges and university campuses.

The college resurrected its defunct intercollegiate athletics program late last year after receiving word that part of the instructionally-related activities funds could be used for sports.

(College officials say they have been assured there will be a continuing source of the money they need for sports — the campus share of the instructional funds will be allocated only once.)

President Wagner last month announced that 23 of the 54 campus activities applying for a share of the funds would be supported through them.

Activities funded, and their amounts, include:

The center for performing arts, $16,394; men's intercollegiate athletics, $12,500; women's intercollegiate athletics, $10,000; a student activities resource production laboratory, $5,750; child care center supplies and transportation, $1,250; arboretum, $3,190; alternative energy center, $3,500; model United Nations, $2,300; women's history media project, $1,800; and women's film series, $1,741.

Biology field study program, $1,145; Sonoma County historic preservation project, $1,600; a public interest research project, $1,110; Mexican American theater, $145; Mathematics lecture series, $700; physics lecture series, $400; community involvement program, $725; an art gallery, $750; visiting artist series, $700; a magazine production workshop, $928; a campus literary magazine, $300; geology lecture series, $380, and a theater arts brochure, $200.

Dr. Wagner said $7,000 of the money will be kept in a contingency fund. Eventual uses might include an off-campus student newspaper, radio station or continuing support of projects which were allocated the balance of the funds.

About $10,000, of the men's sports money, she said, will pay for equipment needed for the college's recently announced reentry into the Far Western Athletic Conference.

Coast Guard Plans Plant

The Coast Guard has filed a notice of intent to build its own sewage treatment facility to serve its housing at Point Reyes Station.

A treatment facility proposed by the North Marin County Water District in the Olema Valley was rejected by the state Coastal Conservation Commission last summer.

According to a notice filed with the San Francisco Regional Water Quality Control Board, the Coast Guard plans to build a plant at its Point Reyes Station property.

"The facility will process and reclaim 15,000 gallons of domestic sewage per day to serve the 175 Coast Guard personnel occupying the site," according to the notice.

The methods of treatment being considered are ponding followed by filtration and disinfection of the effluent and tertiary treatment provided by a self-contained treatment plant.

The Coast Guard's plan is to be discussed by the North Marin County Water District board at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the district office, 999 Atherton Avenue, Novato.

Auto Dealer's Stunt Succeeds
BOYLSTON, Mass. (UPI) — Car dealer Ronnie Wagner, 31, says his two week campout atop his dealership was a promotional stunt, but adds it could go far in prodding Congress into easing car emission standards.
"I proved that cars will sell at the right prices, and I think the industry took note," Wagner said Saturday while packing up the tent he had been living in since Jan. 7.
When he took up his temporary rooftop residency, Wagner vowed to stay until he had sold 23 cars in his American Motors showroom here, or until he had collected 30,000 signatures urging Congress to ease the emission standards, or received 3,000 postcards supporting his arguments.
He wound up selling 26 cars, all at one dollar more than factory price, and received about 2,700 postcards and telephone calls (on a tent-side phone). The signatures have yet to come, but Wagner insists they're on the way.
"About 70 per cent of the cards I received said they were against mandatory safety and emission standards for new cars," he said. "They believe, like I do, it should be a freedom of choice type of thing."

TELEVISION REVIEW

Jeffersons Arrive In New Show With Poor Script

By JAY SHARBUTT
NEW YORK (AP) — In case you avoided TV over the weekend, be advised of two things: No pro football was on let us pray this becomes a trend and "The Jeffersons" arrived Saturday night in their own CBS series.
The Jeffersons, first seen as Archie Bunker's neighbors on "All in the Family," are the latest black family in TV comedy this year; the others are in "That's My Mama," "Sanford and Son" and "Good Times."

ON THE MOVE — Sherman Hemsley and Isabel Sanford, as George and Louise Jefferson, move out of "Bunkerville" into a Manhattan high-rise in "The Jeffersons," a new half-hour comedy series. The series premiered Saturday.

They also are the season's first middle-class black family on TV, the clan headed by George Jefferson excellently portrayed by Sherman Hemsley, a shrewd, feisty owner of several dry cleaning stores.
The script for the scheduled opening show dealt with the family's move to a Manhattan apartment building where middle-class folks live.
Virtually all the dealing concerned whether Jefferson's long-suffering wife Isabel Sanford should reluctantly accede to her husband's wishes and hire a maid to clean the apartment five days a week.
It started when Mrs. Jefferson, newly installed in the apartment, ran into a black friend who worked as a maid in several of the building's apartments. The friend thought Mrs.

J. also was a maid there.
She was set straight, gently but briskly by Jefferson after she exclaimed to him: "How can you afford to live in a place like this? You ain't tall enough to be no basketball player."
"Say what?" said he.
"Then you've got to be a numbers runner," she insisted.
Ho-ho.
Then came a lot of bickering blather, apparently to show that upward mobility for blacks causes embarrassment for some as they "arrive" in a predominantly white society conditioned to thinking of blacks mainly as maids, butlers, janitors and cooks.
The point was made, but in some pretty wretched dialogue, such as George Jefferson's observation to his wife when she worries about being called "Ma'am" by friends who may wind up working for her.
"Look, some people got to be the ma'ams and the rest are mam-mies," he says.
The show also brought in a neighboring married couple — he was white, she was black — for some attempted chuckles, and heard from Jefferson's mother and Lionel, the Jeffersons' 22-year-old son.
But the only real laugh came at the end as a young black maid, after determining that the neighbor's wife and Mrs. Jefferson both live in the relatively plush building, asked: "Well, how come we overcame and nobody told me?"
It was a good finale for a talented cast saddled with a poor script. Maybe next Saturday's show will improve. I hope it does, for it has both potential and an excellent time slot, arriving right after "All in the Family."

Longshot Player Scores Again

TIAJUANA, Mexico (UPI) — All you longshot horse players, despair not. There is hope, as self-confessed longshot bettor Carlos Escandon is proving — time and again.
Escandon has been playing the 5-10 handicap, which involves picking the winners in six straight races, at Agua Caliente Race Track since 1951. He won $64,000 in 1966 and $46,000 in 1969.
Yesterday, the wholesale grocer from Ensenada scored it really big in the 5-10 — and walked away with $90,750.

Bandits Hijack Chinese Dinners
WALTHAM, Mass. (UPI) — Two bandits wearing ski masks and brandishing hunting knives hijacked a cab and made off with its entire cargo — a half-dozen Hawaiian-Chinese dinners.
The $50 worth of "pupu platters," plus five or six orders of fried rice, were sent by cab Saturday from the Hula Hula restaurant on Main Street to an address near a veterans' housing project. It never arrived.
Cab driver George A. Carroll, 35, told police that when he pulled up at the address, the two men demanded the food.
"They knew the driver had the food, they probably were the ones who made the call and no money was taken, so I think they just wanted a good Chinese meal without paying for it," said police Lt. Joseph E. Gaudet.

Faisal Gives Arabs $500 Million

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL
King Faisal of Saudi Arabia returned home today from a weeklong check-writing tour of three Arab states in which he gave them more than $500 million to finance their struggle against Israel. He also agreed on plans to help Lebanon defend its southern borders against Israeli raids.

A joint communique issued after Faisal left the Egyptian winter resort of Aswan where he met with President Anwar Sadat said Faisal gave Egypt a $100 million grant today and that they agreed on plans to help Lebanon fight off Israeli attacks.

The joint statement said: "King Faisal expressed his conviction that it was a duty to continue extending aid to Egypt to enable it to confront any treacherous aggression. Accordingly, King Faisal decided to exert efforts to this end."

The statement said Faisal and Sadat "expressed deep concern over the continuation of Israeli attacks on Lebanese territory"—a reference to almost daily Israeli raids into southern Lebanon last week.

Egyptian Premier Abdel Aziz Higazi said Faisal made the gift "in order to intensify the brotherly support Saudi Arabia gives its sister Egypt." He said the money would be used "for reducing the burdens caused by the costs of critical basic supply commodities."

It was Faisal's second grant to Egypt in six months. When the oil-rich monarch went to Cairo last August for talks with Sadat, he left behind a $300 million check to aid reconstruction following the October, 1973

Middle East War. Today's loan brought the tally of Saudi aid to Egypt since the war to more than $1.1 billion.

An Arab League spokesman announced in Cairo today that the Arab Defense Council has been called to an extraordinary meeting in Cairo Feb. 5 to consider "repeated and escalating Israeli attacks" on Lebanon.

London Hotels Hosting Jewish Functions Are Hit By Gunfire

LONDON (UPI) — Gunmen shooting from a speeding auto escorted by two motorcycles fired on two London hotels staging Jewish functions last night, wounding a man in the leg and injuring six women with flying glass.

More than 200 youths were attending a dance at the Portman, and about 200 guests were attending a Jewish wedding reception at the Carlton Towers, at the time of the attacks. The dance had been advertised in a Jewish newspaper.

In both attacks, gunfire was aimed at ground floor restaurants of the hotels.

Israeli Foreign Minister Yigal Allon was visiting London at the time for a series of talks to Jewish groups, but was not speaking in either of the two hotels attacked.

Libyan oil executive Mahmoud Rugibani was dining in the Portman Hotel with his wife when bullets smashed through the restaurant window.

"People shouted 'fireworks, fireworks' but we both threw ourselves on the ground and joined in the general panic," he said.

Harry Kay, a London dress wholesaler, said women screamed hysterically "and people were trying to scramble on all fours for the exit."

"One man was hit in the leg," he said. "I grabbed a serviette (napkin) and used it as a tourniquet, as he was bleeding profusely."

Just Married Police Officers Find Gunfire

ATLANTA (UPI) — Police officers Lee and Dan Genson knew they would face danger together when they decided to marry. They didn't know the danger would mar their honeymoon.

The Gensons, working as a sex crimes squad, last night stopped a car that had sideswiped their patrol car and Dan got into a struggle with two men, one of whom grabbed the detective's pistol and pointed it at his head.

"I couldn't believe it," said Lee. "There I was and I had been married just two days and my husband was getting shot. I just knew if I shot into the three, I would kill my husband. I was in shock."

Mrs. Genson radioed for help, pulled her gun and held two other passengers, both women, in the car.

The man holding Genson's gun fired it twice inches from his head, but Genson suffered only powder burns. The bullets apparently wounded the man struggling with the detective.

By this time, officer J. W. Carlisle had arrived and he and Mrs. Genson fired at the man with the gun, killing him. The dead man was identified as Charles H. Burnett Jr., 27. His father, Charles Sr., 43, was hospitalized in serious condition.

Genson said he and Lee were married Friday night and returned to work Saturday. Part of their wedding cake still was in the patrol car last night.

"How's this for a honeymoon?" he asked.

Horsemen Install New Officers

Dario Calatolo, a partner in Marin Color Service, has taken over the reigns of Novato Horsemen Inc., a nonprofit organization that promotes horsemanship.

He recently was installed as president of the organization that sponsors the annual Novato rodeo.

Calatolo, 40, of 731 Atherton Avenue, has been a member of the Association for three years and has been interested in horses about 15 years.

He is a native of San Francisco. He served in the Marine Corps during the Korean War. Before entering the paint business, he had a variety of jobs, mainly in the building trades.

He has been operating the Novato store for Marin Color Service for three years. He worked at the San Rafael store before that.

He and his wife, Cheryl, have two sons, Michael and Tony, and a daughter, Kari.

Other new officers are: Michael Lowe, vice president; Norma Witzel, secretary, and Jack Nelson, treasurer.

The association meets the first Tuesday of every month at 8 p.m. at Bugeia and H lanes, Novato.

Forecaster Says Ice Age Cometh

CHICAGO (UPI) — Even though winters are starting earlier and staying longer, a Midwestern meteorologist says worry not — the Ice Age is still a couple of billion years away.

"We really don't think the Ice Age will come back for a couple of billion years or so," said meteorologist Ed Pilar. He said a shift of the arctic flow of air towards the North American continent away from Europe is causing the slowdown.

Europe's winters, he said, are getting shorter.

Pilar, who works for a suburban weather forecasting firm called Metro Weather, says he conducted the research using National Weather Service figures from 1941 through 1971 for Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Kentucky and Ohio.

He said the research was conducted primarily to discover why the winters were getting longer.

Pilar said the freeze this winter occurred six days before the normal freeze date of Nov. 15.

Using his research, Pilar said his prediction in August was only one day off the actual freeze date.

He said the date this year when the ground will begin thawing, about April 15 normally, will be delayed about three days.

Murder Charged In Fetus Death

GREENVILLE, S. C. (UPI) — A 40-year-old Greenville woman has been charged with murder in connection with the shooting death of her unborn child.

The charges were filed against Betty Jean Beasley and stemmed from the death of the nine-month male fetus she was carrying.

Police said the woman allegedly fired a .22-caliber bullet into her stomach. The bullet severed the umbilical cord.

The shooting occurred early last week. The baby was born about an hour later and lived a little more than a day.

The woman was listed in satisfactory condition.

Who's Going To Beat Johnny Miller?

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — The way Johnny Miller is destroying golf courses, you'd have to doubt even Jack Nicklaus can beat him this week when the Professional Golfers Association Tour moves to Pebble Beach and the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am.

Not that anyone doubted Miller's star had finally ascended in 1974 when he won three tournaments at the start of the year and eight before it was all over, along with record earnings of $353,021.

But in the event there were any who needed final convincing Miller has reached superstar status, he provided it in Arizona the last two weeks — winning the Phoenix Open by a record-tying 14 strokes and the Dean Martin-Tucson Open by nine.

The 27-year-old Napa resident took the Phoenix with a 24 under par score of 260, lowest on the Tour in 20 years, and followed by winning the Tucson with a 25 under par score of 263. In the two tournaments, he had three eagles and 51 birdies, and he finished the Tucson yesterday with a record 61.

"The way I'm playing now," Miller said in victory yesterday, "I don't think there is anyone who can beat me."

Miller, presumably, includes Nicklaus in that group. In years past, Miller always has said that Nicklaus, winner of a record 14 major titles, was the best. Now, he isn't that sure.

"Jack is tough, he always is for me," Miller said, "but I'm looking forward to playing against him in the Crosby. It's another challenge and I feel up to it."

Miller said winning two tournaments in a row in Arizona doesn't take away anything from his desire to meet Nicklaus and play the three seaside courses on the Monterey Peninsula this week.

"I wouldn't miss playing in the Crosby for anything," Miller said.

Miller called his final round 61 in the Tucson "the greatest

Sports

Monday, January 20, 1975

I've ever played in my life, even better than the 63 I got to win the U.S. Open two years ago."

It had to be one of the best rounds ever played period. Miller shot sub par on 10 holes and on the other eight he never was more than 15 feet away from a possible birdy. In all, he had nine birdies and an eagle on a card of 31-30.

"I hit the ball so good," he said, "it was a joke."

Maybe to Johnny it was a joke. What it did to John Mahaffey and Tom Watson was shattering. The two young pros played well enough to win any tournament, Mahaffey shooting rounds of 67-69-69-67 for a 16 under par score of 272 and Watson had 72-67-67-67—273.

But Miller, who hasn't had a round over 69 this year, shot 66-69-67-61—263. His final total beat the old tournament record here by eight shots and his 61 topped the 62 he shot a year ago in the first round of the Tucson Open.

Miller picked up $40,000 for his victory here and now has won $70,000 in two weeks. That's a little ahead of his pace of a year ago when he won $57,750 in taking the rainshor-tened Crosby and Phoenix the first two weeks. If he wins the Crosby this week, it will mark the first time any player has taken the first three events two successive years.

In a little more than four years on the Tour now, Miller has won 13 titles but his 1973 U.S. Open victory is the only major one. In his first five years, Nicklaus won 16 titles with five of them major ones.

Mahaffey, whose only Tour victory was in the 1973 Sahara, won $22,800 for finishing second here, while Watson, winner of the 1974 Western Open for his only title, took home $14,200.

Mike Hill and Don Iverson wound up in a tie for fourth at 276, 12 under par but 13 shots behind Miller, and won $8,800 each, while Al Geiberger finished at 278 and won $7,200.

Next, at 279 and winners of $5,900 each, were Bruce Crampton, Tommy Aaron and Leonard Thompson. Arnold Palmer, who made his 1975 debut in the Tucson but will pass up the Crosby, was 10th at 280 and he won $5,000.

Palmer, who played in only 20 events last year and won a career low of $36,293, said he was encouraged by his play here and he plans to compete more often in 1975. He goes next in the Hawaiian Open in two weeks. Napa's Ron Cerrudo earned $942 for his 287.

PRO ATHLETES ARE NOT ALWAYS SERIOUS

Professional athletes are noted for their intensity, but there are times when they are light-hearted. Above left, happy Johnny Miller wore his golf trophy after winning the Dean Martin Tucson Open yesterday. Above center, former Chicago Bears' football star Dick Butkus demolished an onion during filming of a movie he's in at Madrid, Spain.

Trojan Cagers Prevail

By DAVID EINSTEIN

Terra Linda High School overcame a case of depression and an imposing performance by Tamalpais forward Kevin Murphy to register a 64-60, overtime victory Saturday night in a Marin County Athletic League basketball game at College of Marin.

Trojan center Barry Carr, who was in coach Fred Arnold's doghouse and not in the starting lineup, blocked two shots and grabbed two rebounds to dominate the extra period. Terra Linda took away a 3-2 league record against Tam's 1-4.

(See other prep basketball stories, page 26)

Prior to the overtime and especially in the second half, it was Murphy who controlled the game at both ends of the court. He sank a game-high 22 points, mostly from mid-range, including a free throw that brought regulation time to an end with a 58-58 tie.

The stocky senior with the soft touch made only one notable mistake on the night, drawing his fourth personal foul needlessly late in the third quarter, while trying to stop a layup. That forced coach Bernie Schneider to pull him out, and Terra Linda proceeded to erase a six-point Indian lead.

The Trojans, who were coming off a stunning loss to Marin Catholic on Thursday, never did really get their act together. Forward Jim Cronin carried the offensive burden with 17 points, but the usual slick Terra Linda fast-break was nowhere to be seen.

Carr didn't start because, according to Arnold, "He hasn't been playing up to my expectations."

In the final three minutes, however, the 6-foot-5 junior was dominant under the basket as T. L. limited the Indians to one bucket. The Trojans took the lead for good with 48 seconds left on a layup by Matt Flynn.

150 Pro Golfers

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — A total of 150 pro golfers today will try to qualify for 20 open spots in the $215,000 Bing Crosby National Pro-Amateur Championships, which start Thursday over the Pebble Beach, Spyglass and Cypress Point courses.

Colts Have First Crack At Cal QB Bartkowski

MIAMI (AP) — Steve Bartkowski, a big, strong-throwing quarterback out of the University of California, looms as the hottest commodity in the approaching National Football League draft, and the Baltimore Colts have first grabs.

"We don't feel we need a quarterback, but believe we could use Bartkowski for good trading purposes," said Joe Thomas, Baltimore's general manager, after winning the coin flip for the No. 1 pick over Tex Schramm of the Dallas Cowboys.

The New York Giants, with a 2-12 season record to match that of the Colts for worst in the NFL, would have been in the coin flip, but traded their No. 1 pick to Dallas for quarterback Craig Morton.

"I am in contact with four clubs which are interested in landing a quarterback like Bartkowski," Thomas said. "We are trying to rebuild, to get the Colts back into the playoff status they once enjoyed. We feel we should be able to land two front-line experienced players, at least, for this fine quarterback."

Thomas said the situation was similar to that which existed a few years ago, when he was with the Miami Dolphins and had a chance to pick Mike Phipps, the Purdue quarterback, but actually wanted a top wide receiver. So he traded the choice to Cleveland, and received Paul Warfield in return.

"I hope to have a deal made before the draft," the Baltimore executive said. The draft is scheduled Jan. 28-29 in New York.

Thomas declined to identify the four clubs with whom he is talking, but they are believed to be the Kansas City Chiefs, Washington Redskins, Los Angeles Rams and New York Jets.

The Chiefs have an aging quarterback in Len Dawson and owner Lamar Hunt has indicated he is anxious to instill new blood in the Chiefs, to rebuild them into a Super Bowl contender. Earlier, Hunt fired veteran Coach Hank Stram, and he is still seeking a successor.

Washington is plugging along with a pair of old-timers, Sonny Jurgensen and Billy Kilmer, and the Rams, having traded John Hadl to Green Bay, are reportedly not completely satisfied with James Harris and young Ron Jaworski.

The Jets' situation is well known. Broadway Joe Namath hasn't made up his mind whether to continue in the game, and he has advised Phil Iselin, the club's president, that he should sign a young quarterback even if he, Namath, decides to play a couple more years.

Baltimore appears to be satisfied with its present signal callers, Bert Jones and Marty Domres. The Colts are in the market for a lineman of the caliber of Maryland's Randy White, or a linebacker like Rod Shoate of national champion Oklahoma or little-known Robert Brazile, a little All-American from Jackson State.

"If we are unable to make a deal for Bartkowski before the draft," Thomas said, "I think we would go for White."

White is a 6-foot-4, 255-pounder who received both the Outland and Lombardi trophies as the nation's top college lineman.

Bartkowski had a sensational season, completing 182 of 325 passes for 2,580 yards. He threw for 12 touchdowns and had seven passes intercepted.

AFTER TRIMMING SEALS

Chicago Goalie Esposito Is Happy

CHICAGO (UPI) — Chicago Black Hawks goalie Tony Esposito blamed himself today for losing what would have been his sixth shutout of the year and said he was happy with a 3-1 win over the California Seals.

The Seals' only score yesterday came after 1:49 of the last period and Esposito said "the puck came in at a bad angle and bounced off my pads and I couldn't freeze it. It bounced behind the cage and I don't know what happened then."

What happened was that Larry Patey passed the puck out to defenseman Jim Neilson, who slapped a 50-foot shot past Esposito.

But the goal wasn't enough to give the Seals even a tie because John Marks got the second Chicago goal on a power play with only 10 seconds left to play in the second period.

"The goalie was coming out on me and they were coming up to check," Marks said. "He didn't give me much to shoot at but I hit what he gave me, high and in the far corner of the net."

The Hawks' first goal, by Jim Pappin, also came on a power play and Pappin's second goal of the game came with 14 seconds remaining into an empty net after Seals' Coach Marshall Johnston pulled goalie Gilles Meloche.

"Meloche was sharp all the way," Johnston said of his netminder, who made 27 stops. "He always plays well. He lets in a cheap goal now and then but everybody does that."

Johnston said his National Hockey League team was "a little tight" and had trouble getting going for the first half of the game, possibly because it was the Seals' first national television appearance. "We've got nine rookies and 14 new players," he said, "and they wanted to play."

He didn't believe his team was affected by the fact that the Seals have not won on the Hawks' rink in more than five years, losing 12 and tying two.

"I thought we had more ties than that," he said. "But maybe I thought the ties were wins and the losses ties. Next Sunday when we play them without television, it ought to be a more open game."

The win, third in the last four games for the Hawks, moves them within three points of the division lead. It was the fifth loss in the last six games for the Seals.

rites set — A rosary will be said in Arcadia tonight for 29-year-old jockey Alvaro Pineda who was killed in a freak accident at Santa Anita's starting gate Saturday afternoon. The service for one of the nation's top jockeys will be held at Holy Angels Church. Pineda was killed when the inexperienced colt, Austin Mittler, reared in the starting gate before the fourth race Saturday, pinning Pineda against the wall of the enclosed gate. His skull was crushed against a metal bar in the gate. Pineda was pronounced dead on arrival at Arcadia Methodist Hospital. (UPI Telephoto)

Huck Finn Prize Won By San Rafael Girl

SAN FRANCISCO — Stacey de Back, 10, of San Rafael won a Chrysler outboard motor yesterday when her name was selected for the top prize in the Huck Finn Pool drawing during the San Francisco Sports and Boat Show at the Cow Palace.

Another Marinite, Teige Duncanson of Novato, won a Dr. Pepper cool chest. A record crowd of 389,830 attended the 10-day show, surpassing the 1973 mark of 387,524.

More Frustration For Marin Tars

SUISUN CITY — "It's one of those kinds of years of frustration," said College of Marin basketball coach Jim Webster. "It seems to be one thing after another."

The latest "thing" was the failure of three of his players to make it to the bus in time for Saturday night's game. A few hours later Marin lost its seventh game in a row, this time to Solano College, 82-60.

Willie Barnes, Skip Starnes and John Tait, all from Novato, did not show up for the team bus in the parking lot of the Kentfield campus and after 20 minutes of waiting, Webster and his nine remaining players and other team personnel left for Suisun City.

Solano dominated the game from the start, running off to a 41-33 halftime lead and then putting the Tars away for good in the second half. Doing most of the damage was Willie Daniel with 20 points and Russ Hodges and Rickey Beavers with 16 each.

"Solano came out with a zone and we have trouble with a zone because we don't have outside shooting," said Webster. Solano outrebounded Marin, 39-35. "We seldom got any second shots," said Webster.

Mike Dinehart, former Tamalpais star, led Marin with 24 points and sophomore John Channell from Drake chipped in with 18 points and 11 rebounds. "Channell has been playing very consistently on both ends of the court for us," said Webster. See TARS, page 26

Coffland, tiler.

Youth Planning May Festival

A Bicentennial May Festival, including tricycle and wheelbarrow races, May pole dance and hog calling contest is being planned by the youth committee of the Marin County American Revolution Bicentennial Commission.

Committee adviser Jerry Owens said that the festival will be held May 3, and that students will be selling "May in Marin" buttons to finance the event.

The next meeting of the youth committee, which is open to all interested Marin youth, will be Feb. 6 at 4 p.m. in the supervisors chambers at Marin Civic Center.

Biologist To Talk About Marine Life

College of Marin marine biologist Gordon Chan will show colored slides and speak on marine life on Micronesian coral reefs at 8 p.m. Feb. 3 at Olney Hall in Kentfield. Admission is $2.50.

Today is Monday, Jan. 20, the 20th day of 1975 with 345 to follow.

The moon is in its first quarter. The morning star is Mars. The evening stars are Mercury, Venus, Jupiter and Saturn.

Polish-American pianist Joseph Hoffman was born Jan. 20, 1876. American actress Patricia Neal was born 49 years ago today.

On this day in history:
In 1892, the first officially recognized basketball game was played at a YMCA training school in Springfield, Mass. The game was invented by Dr. James Naismith.

In 1936, King George V of Britain died.

In 1969, Richard Milhouse Nixon was inaugurated as the 37th president of the United States. He was inaugurated for a second term on this date in 1973.

In 1972, an airplane hijacker was captured, with Air Force aid, after collecting $50,000 ransom and parachuting out of the plane over Colorado.

A thought for the day: British poet Philip Bailey said, "It matters not how long we live, but how."

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

There's Nothing 'Free' About Free Double; May Be Costly

"Please say a few words about the free double," requests a reader. "My husband likes to double the opponents at high contracts whether he can beat them or not. He says that he isn't doubling them into game, so his doubles are free. "Here is a double he perpetrated last night:

DECLARER RUFFS
"Declarer ruffed the opening spade lead, led a trump to dummy's seven and finessed with the queen of diamonds. He next cashed the ace of diamonds, led a trump to dummy's queen and ruffed a diamond. "South then led a club to dummy's ace and discarded two clubs on the good diamonds. He took all 13 tricks, scoring 300 below the line and 950 above the line.

"According to my calculations, this double cost 600 points. Is this what experts call a free double?"

No, ma'am. Experts have many words for this kind of double, but "free" isn't one of them.

BAD RISK
It's a bad risk to double a high contract just on general principles. If the double succeeds, you usually score 200 points instead of the normal penalty of 100 points. All you gain is 100 points. If the double goes sour, you usually lose more than twice as much. In this case, East lost six times as much as he stood to gain.

It may be sensible to take the short end of the odds when you're sure of what you're doing, but not when you're backed only by a vague hope. Doubling a high contract may win or lose a large number of points, but it is never "free."

DAILY QUESTION
Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:
K Q 8 7 3
J 10 7 6 2
What do you say?
ANSWER: Bid four spades. This jump to game promises very strong trump support, usually five or more cards, a singleton or void, and not more than 9 points in high cards.
